HOPE FADES FOR 68 TRAPPED MINERS

13 NAMED IN INDICTMENTS BY GRAND JURY

Charges Against Four Dropped as Jurors Report to Judge H. S. Young.

Twelve indictments against 13 persons were returned by the January term grand jury in its report to Common Pleas Judge Heezy S. Young shortly before noon today.

Convening Wednesday the jury considered 16 cases, returned indictments in 12 and ignored four cases. Forty-five witnesses were examined during the presentation of testimony under the direction of County Prosecuting Attorney Paul D. Michel and Assistant Walter D. Moore.

Charges in the indictments range from issuing checks without funds to robbery and cutting with intent to wound.

Jail Inspected

The jury's report was made immediately following an inspection tour of the county jail. Inquiring into the treatment of prisoners, their habits, diets and accommodations, the jury reported finding the jail in a "clean and sanitary condition, with proper discipline maintained."

"Prisoners are properly treated and cared for," the jury reported, adding that "no change is recommended in the management of the jail." The jury's report was signed by Henry P. Drake as foreman and Bernita Auld, as clerk.

List of Indictments

Indictments returned and the charges in each follow:

Arthur Amick, embezzlement, accused of converting $147.40 belonging to Mercantile bowling league to his own use, filed by Harold Henry May 22.

Lowell Dickerson, larceny, charged with taking two bicycles valued at $25 and belonging to Jesse Rech, Aug. 27.

Gerald Whaley, automobile stealing, accused of taking an automobile belonging to Elmer Lust, Sept. 22.

James Furniss, breaking and entering, in connection with burglary of L. O. Campbell service station at Caledonia, Sept. 25.

Paul Yenny, arson, accused of firing horse barn at Marion county fairgrounds, Oct. 8.

Charles A. Boughton, abandonment of a woman about to become a mother, filed Oct. 13 by Edith Ruby Boughton.

Howard (alias) Mondue Thomas, cutting with intent to wound Henry Jennings, Oct. 23.

H. E. Rhodes, issuing check for $137.41 to Old Fort Mills, Inc., May 22, without funds.

Willard Hopkins, forgery, charged with issuing a $20 check on Caledonia bank to Wilber Highland and signed Charles Radcliff, Oct. 31.

Paul Tanner and Robert Wurlshaugh, named in same indictment and charged with breaking and entering in connection with burglary of Warren Dutton garage at LaRue, Dec. 14.

James McDonald, robbery, accused of taking 48 cents belonging to Ray Winslow, Dec. 19.

Clifford Swartz, cutting with intent to wound Florence Swartz, Dec. 22.

DEPUTY MUNICIPAL COURT CLERK DIES

Mrs. E. Leona Schoonover Is Stricken by Sudden Illness.

Mrs. E. Leona Schoonover, 42, of 242 West Columbia street, deputy clerk in the municipal court, died of pneumonia today at 10:30 a. m. at City hospital.

She worked Wednesday afternoon, and Wednesday night went to a physician's office for treatment. He ordered her to remain at home and Thursday noon, when her condition became much worse, she was moved to the hospital.

Last night she was placed under an oxygen tent and it was operated continuously until her death.

Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen, who appointed Mrs. Schoonover, a Democrat, said today that her death came so suddenly he had not thought of the appointment of a successor. He said that for the present Miss Mary Kelleher, whom she succeeded, would be employed.

Began New Job Jan. 1

Mrs. Schoonover was sworn in as deputy clerk at the municipal court on New Year's day.

Before receiving the appointment she was employed part time in the county recorder's office from 1933 until the last of 1939.

Mrs. Schoonover was employed as a clerk in the cost department of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. from April of 1917 until August of 1923, shortly after her marriage to Troy H. Schoonover.

Three Marion youths who shared in recent nominations as principals and alternates for appointment to the United States Naval and Military academies are pictured above. At the left is Richard G. Laucher, 20, of 749 East Center street, first alternate for a West Point appointment. George A. Capp of Findlay is the principal nominee. In the center picture is Guy H. Cain Jr., 16, of 387 Fies avenue, principal nominee for an Annapolis appointment. At the right is Robert L. Rausch, 18, of 336 Waterloo street, first alternate for another Annapolis appointment. The principal nominee for the second Annapolis appointment is John N. Taylor of Findlay. Mr. Cain must pass the Annapolis entrance examination in April in order to become a midshipman and so must Mr. Taylor.

The West Point examination for principal nominees comes in March. Should the principal nominees for West Point or Annapolis fail to pass the tests the first alternates will take them and if they fail the second alternates are examined. If they too fail the vacancy is carried over to next year.

51 FINED IN TRAFFIC COURT

Second Week of Police Drive Brings Busiest Session in Years.

Fifty-one fines of $2 each were meted out for traffic ordinance violations here this morning in one of the busiest traffic court sessions in the history of the municipal court.

All those fined reported in answer to traffic tag citations issued by police during the last week and pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen.

While no "not guilty" pleas were entered by motorists, court officials said that a few cases were dismissed for one reason or another. Several official cars were inadvertently tagged and several truck drivers were issued citations for alley parking while unloading merchandise, court officials explained.

106 Tags Issued

With the police department's traffic ordinance enforcement drive in its second week, officers issued 106 citations since traffic court was held last Friday and one of the largest crowds of defendants ever assembled in the municipal court room was on hand this morning as Judge Hazen opened court. Virtually all of the defendants paid their fines without complaint, some of them even expressing the opinion that "this is one of the best things Marion can do to solve its traffic problem."

Most of the traffic tags issued during the week were for various types of improper parking, chiefly parking on the left instead of the right side of the street, police reported. The number of tags issued for alley parking was considerably lower than last week, despite the fact that there was no "let down" in enforcement of the alley-parking ordinance, Chief Marks said. Several tags also were issued for parking in fire hydrant zones and other restricted areas.

Warnings Mailed

Last week 14 fines of $2 each were meted out for traffic violations and yesterday police mailed warnings to 15 motorists who failed to appear in court last Friday, pointing out that they are subject to arrest if they fail to report.

Similar warnings will be mailed within the next few days to a large number of motorists who failed to report in court this morning, Police Chief Marks reported.

U. S. BANK DEPOSITS INCREASE IN 1939

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—The federal reserve board estimated today that the United States has an unprecedented total of $64,400,000,000 of cash in bank deposits, currency and coin—about $489 for every man, woman and child in the country.

The total, the board said in its monthly bulletins, increased $5,300,000,000 last year and was $9,000,000,000 larger than in 1933.

Absent Voting On Special Levies for Relief Begun

Election board officials announced today that ballots are available now for absentee voting on the two extra tax levies which will be up at a special city election Jan. 30. The absentee voting will continue until a few days before the election.

Voters were also warned again today of the deadline Jan. 23 for registrations and transfers of residence. The board's offices will be open until 6:30 p. m. on Jan. 23 to accept last minute registrations.

Notices of ineligibility to vote without registration have been mailed to approximately 600 persons. Their names were removed from the eligible file recently because of failure to vote in a general or primary election during the last two years. The number of removals was the second lowest since the registration system was started here early in the 30's.

The levies to be voted on Jan. 30 are 1.3 mills for poor relief and .9 of a mill for WPA work.

Appeal for Funds To Aid Finnish Civilians Renewed

Appeals on behalf of the Finnish civilian population were renewed in Marion and other points in Ohio today as collection of contributions to the Finnish Relief Fund continued.

Donations are being received at the Marion County bank, National City Bank & Trust Co., Fahey Banking Co. and at The Star office.

Dr. Eugene Van Cleef of Columbus, state chairman of the fund which is headed nationally by former President Herbert Hoover, today announced appointment of three business men to an executive committee to help organize local relief fund groups, The Associated Press reported. They are Paul S. Clapp and Herbert Lape Jr., both of Columbus, and L. B. Williams of Cleveland.

Fund workers contribute their time to the campaign without remuneration. Every dollar given actually reaches the Finnish noncombatants, all administrative expenses being defrayed by special contributions, Mr. Hoover has announced.

Dr. Van Cleef, who is head of Ohio State university's geography department, today expressed praise for the work of Ohio newspapers in "starting the ball rolling" in the campaign.

"The newspapers have done an amazing job," he said. "Many of them began taking contributions before the relief fund committee started work."

CITES RECORD SINCE FLEEING OKLAHOMA PEN

Western Officials Say They Will Try Again To Return Prisoner.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12—Gov. Bricker refused today to authorize the extradition to Oklahoma of Carlton B. Chilton, 44-year-old Clevelander, who "made good" after escaping from an Oklahoma reformatory in 1913.

Governor Bricker said in a three-page letter that his decision was based on Chilton's "good conduct" record.

"It is my honest conviction that Mr. Chilton by his own conduct during the past quarter century has clearly shown his own rehabilitation and a positive disposition to live as a peaceful, industrious and law-abiding citizen," Bricker wrote.

"If the failure of the state of Ohio to return Mr. Chilton to the state of Oklahoma would mean the destruction of the trusty system of the state of Oklahoma, then, as in such event, his return might be justified on the basis of a greater good.

Other Considerations

"It seems to me, however, that recognition on the part of the states involved of the exemplary manner in which Mr. Chilton has lived since the time of his escape would do more to improve the spirit and morale of the inmates of our penal institutions than any adherence to legalistic technicalities. In this equation, his wife and step-child, who are wholly dependent on him for support, must likewise be considered."

The letter was addressed to Gov. Leon Phillips of Oklahoma, who reinstituted extradition proceedings after refusing a pardon plea for Chilton. Governor Bricker's clemency secretary, Harry Miller, heard Oklahoma's arguments for custody of Chilton at a hearing yesterday.

Chilton's return to Oklahoma was refused in 1936 by former Gov. Davey, who gave Chilton a job in the state highway department.

Owen J. Watts, assistant Oklahoma attorney general, contending at the extradition hearing that "the fundamental institutions of this government are on trial," said later the state would keep trying to "get its man."

Chilton Is Thankful

"I'm very thankful for Gov. Bricker's action and I want to thank all my friends in this state and the state of Oklahoma for their kindness in coming to my aid again," Chilton said in Cleveland.

"I hope Gov. Phillips will reconsider his action and grant me a full pardon which I think would be best. I think I am entitled to one."

Perry A. Frey, Cleveland municipal judge who presented arguments in Chilton's behalf at the hearing, sent this telegram to Bricker:

"I wish to express on behalf

PLANE FORCES TEST STRENGTH

British Forces Engage German Pilots in Exchange of Feeler Thrusts.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 12 — The royal air force, engaged with German aviation in a tit-for-tat war of feeler thrusts, was reported today in an air ministry communique to have made successful reconnaissance flights last night over western and northwestern Germany and over seaplane bases in Helgoland bight.

A German Heinkel plane fled seaward from the Yorkshire coast today when British planes swooped toward it.

Machine gun fire was heard and there were scattered reports of "considerable air activity" over Yorkshire towns.

Germany's aerial inspection of almost the whole British east coast was regarded by air force strategists today as a threat of more destructive visits to come.

In a series of raids at six points from southeast Scotland to the English channel yesterday — the most widespread of the war so far —German fliers attacked only one merchant ship and three trawlers.

They made no attempt to bomb land objectives.

Air experts concluded that the primary object was to photograph the seaboard as a guide for future waves of bombers, perhaps as preparation for intensive raids on British docks and shipyards.

To strengthen coast defenses, British authorities considered sending aloft more balloon barrages from barges near the shore,

Ruling from State Decides 2-Office Issue for Village

The question of whether Ivan R. Barnhart can serve as a teacher in the Green Camp school and as village councilman at the same time was settled yesterday when an opinion was received from the office of Secretary of State Earl Griffith that the two positions are incompatible, Mayor George W. Sorrells of Green Camp reported today.

Mr. Barnhart is also superintendent at Green Camp.

The secretary of state's office, in so ruling, upheld Attorney Kenneth A. Robinson of Marion, who as village solicitor for Green Camp had held it was illegal for Mr. Barnhart to serve both as a public school teacher and councilman.

Has Precedent

The situation created by the election of Mr. Barnhart to council last November is not unique in Marion county. Election board officials said that Supt. Paul Furniss of Agosta schools served two years on the Agosta council, ending Dec. 31.

The dispute over the seating of Mr. Barnhart on the council began on Dec. 30 when Noah Clinger, Republican, then mayor of Green Camp and now successor to Mr. Barnhart on the council, requested an opinion from Mr. Robinson. Mr. Robinson held that Mr. Barnhart could not legally hold the two jobs simultaneously and as a result the council refused to seat Mr. Barnhart when it held its first meeting on Jan. 1.

Instead, council elected Mr. Clinger to replace Mr. Barnhart as councilman. Mr. Clinger was the seventh highest man in the November voting on the six council positions.

Mayor Sorrells said today that considerable opposition to the change was expressed among the villagers, especially since Mr. Barnhart was a Democrat and Mr. Clinger a Republican. Mr. Sorrells is a Republican.

DEFENDS OHIO IN RELIEF ROW

Wisconsin Representative Declares New Deal Tries To "Smear" Bricker.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Ohio's Republican delegation in the house found a strong ally today in defending Gov. Bricker's relief policy against New Deal onslaughts.

Representative Schafer, Wisconsin Republican, accused the Roosevelt administration yesterday of trying to "smear" the Ohio Republican chief executive. Several New Dealers have charged the governor with failing to care for Ohio relief clients properly. Bricker contended that the New Deal played politics with relief funds.

Schafer asserted on the house floor that he thought the "New Deal crowd is more interested in smearing the governor, not with a view of the past election, but the 1940 election. They no doubt have caught from the reaction throughout the country that he, governor of Ohio was a strong potential dark horse candidate for the presidency in 1940."

Bricker has said he intended to run for reelection and that he would support Sen. Robert A. Taft, an avowed presidential candidate.

The Ohio relief debate was touched off by Representative Bender (R-Ohio), who asserted that "all the trouble is right here in Washington."

Representative Jenkins (R-Ohio), who had been speaking against a third term for President Roosevelt, blamed Buckeye relief troubles on national administration policies and accused the President and other Democratic leaders of criticizing Ohio relief because of its Republican administration.

Answering a question by Representative Woodrum (D-Va.) as to whether a balanced Ohio budget "reflects a bad economic condition," Bender declared, "the governor of Ohio cut down the number of jobs, unnecessary jobs, and he cut down the payroll. He did what the President has recommended if we are able to understand his budget."

RESCUE SQUAD FINDS 23 DEAD IN BLAST AREA

Men Believed Killed Instantly as Explosion Shattered Workings.

By The Associated Press

BARTLEY, W. Va., Jan. 12 — Recovery of 23 bodies from the blast-torn Bartley No. 1 mine shattered hope today for the safety of 68 other miners trapped behind twisted timbers and other debris by Wednesday's explosion.

The last 19 bodies—all badly mangled—were found as rescue crews stumbled through the wrecked tunnels 600 feet underground to the center of the explosion area.

Rescue workers reported the men probably had been killed instantly and saw little chance that miners in other entryways had escaped a similar fate. Mine company officials and mine inspectors shared that belief.

Hope Nearly Gone

"I am afraid that finding of the bodies means the other men in the mine also will be found dead," said G. J. Stollings, general manager of the Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal Corp., which operates the workings.

It took approximately 38 hours to tunnel through tons of slate, rock and coal to where the 91 men were caught 600 feet underground by a blast mine inspectors said might have resulted when the miners cut into some abandoned gas-filled entry. Forty-seven diggers in the eastern section of the mine escaped.

Four bodies were recovered before rescuers reached the explosion scene. The explosion occurred less than an hour before the day shift was scheduled to go off duty.

Company officials estimated it would be early afternoon before other trapped men could be reached. Crews had to build barriers to allow laborers to work without oxygen helmets. In some places there was hardly enough room for one man to crawl between the roof and piled debris.

Above ground scores of miners and relatives of entombed men huddled together in a cold drizzle, watching gloomily. Many had clung to hope as the hours passed, while veteran miners who have witnessed such disasters feared the worst.

Lights burned throughout the night in homes of this isolated community of 2,500 in the heart of the rich southern West Virginia coal fields. In those homes were 184 children of the trapped men, many of them still wondering why "daddy" hadn't come home from work.

State Mine Inspector R. L. Chatfield, after talking with the rescue crews, said, "the evidence of the violence indicates that every man in the mine is doomed."

He reported one of the crews found a two-ton loading machine blown 60 feet from the face of the coal. The track on which it ran was twisted and warped.

"The men apparently had no chance to get away," he added, dashing further the hopes that some of the group might have been able to barricade themselves in an isolated section.

"After damp," the mixture of gases which is left after all oxygen is burned out in an explosion, would have killed many of the men instantly, Chatfield declared, if they were unable to shut themselves off.

Woman Fears for Brother's Safety

Mrs. Stephen D. Sterling of 228 Thew avenue anxiously awaited word today of the welfare of her brother, Robert Sheets, employed at the Bartley, W. Va., mine where Wednesday's disaster occurred.

Mrs. Sterling said her brother worked on a shift from 1 p. m. to midnight, which was the period during which the explosion occurred. Belief that if he was among the entombed men she would have been notified by their parents at Tazewell, Va., was expressed by Mrs. Sterling. She and her husband came to Marion from Columbus several years ago. Mr. Sterling is route supervisor for the Omar Baking Co.

Record for Improvement in Tracks Celebrated by C. & O. Workers Here

F. A. Sparks, Division Winner, Holds Banquet for Assistants.

An enviable record in railroad track improvement was celebrated here last night when Frank A. Sparks, supervisor of tracks for the Marion district of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, entertained his foremen, assistant foremen and district and division officials at a banquet at the Legion dugout.

Recently Mr. Sparks received first prize in an annual competition held by the railroad when company officials judged there were more improvements made in track conditions in the Marion district last year than in any other district in the company's Hocking division. The dinner last night was given by Mr. Sparks in recognition of his men who, he said, "really did the work that got results."

There was an air of success and satisfaction surrounding the banquet because, for the 25 railroaders present, the award represented achievement of one of the highest goals in their line of work.

W. L. Roller of Columbus, engineer of the Hocking division, presided as master-of-ceremonies, introducing several officials and employes who spoke briefly, congratulating Mr. Sparks [illegible]

TRANSIT CO. SERVING MARION GETS HONOR

Galion-Mansfield Co. Receives Tri-State Safety Award.

The Galion-Mansfield Transit Co. of Galion, which operates bus routes serving Marion, Galion, Mansfield, Bucyrus and intermediate points, has been awarded first place in class C competition for the 1939 safety honors awarded annually by the Tri-State Bus association, The Associated Press reported today from Cincinnati.

Class C lines are those operating between 100,000 and 200,000 miles of travel a year. The Galion-Mansfield Transit Co. buses went 165,321 miles with one accident.

The Greenville-Dayton Transportation Co. of Greenville, O., won the class A award for its record of only three accidents in 1,363,868 miles. Class A includes companies operating 750,000 miles or more a year. Class B, 200,000 to 750,000 miles a year, honor went to the United Motor Stage Co. of Zanesville with no accidents in 416,048 miles. The honor for class D, less than 100,000 miles, went to the Chillicothe-Jackson Coach Co. of Chillicothe with one mishap in 90,410 miles.

Census Takers Are on Biggest Reporting Job in History

The biggest job of reporting ever attempted is now under way, with thousands of men and women scouring the country for facts about their fellow human beings.

It is the sixteenth decennial census of the United States, which will give the county the most elaborate assemblage of information ever compiled in the world.

In Marion and nearby counties, as well as throughout the nation, the gigantic task was launched simultaneously at the start of this year and the counting of noses and jobs and dollars and acres and a million other things will not be completed until midsummer.

In this nationwide question bee, the government will ask the average citizen about 25 questions. There will be 299 in all—covering people, homes and farms—about 40 more than in 1930.

Seek To Know All

In addition to wanting to know your age, house number, whether you own or rent your home, how much it's worth, marital status, sex, race, color, schooling, place of birth, etc., etc., etc., the government also has a deep curiosity about such details as whether you use a bathtub or shower on Saturday nights.

The census bureau is a typically efficient modern machine with its center in Washington, many regional points, district offices and finally the thousands of individual enumerators. The enumerators, like most reporters, have to get out and dig around for their facts, the only difference being that the enumerators have Uncle Sam to back them up if a "big" business man refuses to be quoted.

Strive for Accuracy

They make out their reports, or leave blanks with whatever business they are assigned to and let the company make them out—but whoever makes out the report, it is carefully checked for accuracy. At Washington where the compact report eventually winds up, it is used along with thousands of others in compiling statistics.

The whole business is statistical, which may sound pretty dry, but when it is all added up it makes a true to life picture of what the United States is.

The new census is expected to show among other things that the United States accounts for about one-fifteenth of the land area and population of the world. Yet this one-fifteenth or six and one-half per cent:

Has 45 per cent of the world's wealth.

Has 60 per cent of the world's monetary gold, enough to fill a freight train five miles long.

Produces over 60 per cent of the world's oil supply.

Produces one-third of all the pig iron and steel.

Owns 68 per cent of the world's automobiles, nearly half the telephones.

It will also show that several million people don't have jobs and a lot of others don't get enough to eat.

The population and agricultural census which is scheduled to start early in April will undoubtedly interest more people than the business and manufacturing census now under way.

Among the various bits of information to be sought are the following:

The extent of the shift of people from the farm to the city. When the census was started in 1700 America was 95 per cent rural, now only about 24 per cent of the population is actually supported by farms. Whether the depression has forced people back to the land will be shown.

The nation's birth rate. In 1915 it was over 25 babies per 1,000 people, now it is about 17, a big drop in the baby crop. It will also show which part of the nation produces the most babies and where the most deaths occur.

The nation's death rate. In 1900 it was 17.6 persons per 1,000 and in 1937 it was 11.2. Tremendous advances in medical science account for the drop. The census will show which diseases are being checked.

How many are unemployed. This will be broken down into many classifications, including those who were not actually seeking work.

District Organization

The Eighth district census, which has headquarters in Marion, is directed by Mrs. Harriet B. Stuart of Bucyrus with L. A. Glosser of Upper Sandusky as her assistant. At present only 10 enumerators are working in the business and manufacturing survey, but when the population and agriculture survey begins in April the number is expected to go up rapidly.

In the country some 120,000 persons, probably all Democrats, will be employed as enumerators. There will be 7,000 clerks and hundreds of tabulating machines. It is expected to require 40 volumes of about 40,000 pages each to contain the answers to all the questions. The first census report in 1790 used up only 56 pages.

Among the new questions this year are several relating to education, 31 new ones on housing, from five to 10 on employment and unemployment, depending on the status of the individual. There will be sample polls on language, veteran problems and social security, about 10 questions to be asked about one out of every 20 persons.

Persons over 14 years of age will face a barrage of queries on employment.

As to the native lands of foreign born Americans, the census bureau has given up hope in view of the muddled conditions in Europe. Instead of asking the name of the country at birth, they will ask the name of the country as of Jan. 1, 1937.

Housing Statistics

The housing census will include questions on the type of structure, exterior material, number of rooms, sanitary facilities, heating and refrigeration equipment, value of dwelling, amount of rent if rented, mortgages if any and a lot of others.

If you're pretty snappy with your answers, the enumerator should be through with you in a half-hour, but some people will require as long as two hours, the census bureau fears.

Farmers come in for the biggest going over. At first there were 6,000 questions submitted to the census bureau for farmers to answer, but these were finally sifted down to 232 at the latest count. The average farmer will have to answer only about 170 of them, but in addition he will face the usual population questions, about 25 on the average. The farm questions concern crops, livestock, values and acreages, debts, labor and machinery.

For Example

Typical questions under various classifications will be:

Have you a telephone?

Have you a bathtub or shower in your home and who uses it?

How much did you make last year and what rent did you pay?

How much spinach did you raise last year?

If married (women), have you been married more than once; how old when first married; how many children?

How far along in school did you get?

If neither at work nor assigned to public emergency work, was this person seeking work?

What type of fuel used for cooking? For heating?

Is there a radio in the house?

Is the house in need of major repairs?

Year house was built?

Cost of utilities paid by non-farmer renter in addition to regular monthly rental?

Not Too Inquisitive

In the business census now under way in Marion and other counties, the workers always emphasize they are not nosing into profits of companies. They are chiefly interested in three things, according to Supervisor Stuart:

1. Production. 2. Distribution. 3. Employment.

All information is strictly confidential. The files of the census bureau are not even open to other federal agencies.

A wide variety of blank forms are used by the enumerators here. Most frequently used are those for retail businesses, construction businesses, manufacturers, hotels and tourist camps, service and amusement businesses, wholesale businesses. Doctors, lawyers and other professional men do not have to undergo the business census. Banks and some other financial institutions are covered by mail.

One of the interesting situations which is expected to be shown is that 25 per cent of the retail stores do 75 per cent of the business. For more extreme contrast, 25 per cent of the business is done by one per cent of the stores.

Instruction Offered in Various Fields by County's Adult Education Program

Adult education classes are being organized here in music, citizenship, literacy, first aid and other fields, D. T. Mills, county chairman of the federal adult education program, announced today.

No charge is made for the instruction and adults may enroll at the class meeting places or with H. G. Roest of 212 Elm street, registrar for the program, Mr. Mills announced.

Classes in literacy are being held at the Y. M. C. A. from 8 to 11:30 a. m. on Tuesdays and Fridays and at the Pentecostal Assembly church at 287 Senate street from 1 to 4 p. m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Miss Mayme Thornberg is the instructor.

Office Training Classes

Office training classes are being held at the Y each night from 6 to 9 o'clock and at the Central Community House at the corner of East Church and High streets from 1 to 4 p. m. each Wednesday and Friday. Miss Wilmina Doughty is the teacher. Citizenship classes designed to prepare aliens for American citizenship, are being held at the public library each Monday and Wednesday from 7 to 9 p. m.

John Sekinger, Red Cross first aid instructor, is in charge of first aid classes at the relief center at 131 South Prospect street each night from 7:30 to 10:30 o'clock.

Music Classes

Classes in guitar, Hawaiian guitar and banjo are being held at the Y under the supervision of Thomas Finch. The classes meet from 1 to 3:30 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, from 9 to 11 a. m. on Thursday, and from 7 to 9:30 p. m. on Tuesday and Friday.

Music classes also are being held at the Park Street A. M. E. church with George Wood as instructor. Classes in harmony meet from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m. on Tuesday, 7 to 10 p. m. on Wednesday and 2 to 4 p. m. on Thursday. Choral music is taught from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m. Monday while piano instruction is offered from 7 to 9:30 p. m. each Tuesday, from 4 to 6 p. m. on Thursdays and from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m. and 6 to 8:30 p. m. on Fridays.

DIPHTHERIA TESTS MADE IN COUNTY

Rural Schools Being Checked by Health Officials.

Testing and immunizing pupils in Marion county schools against diphtheria is being conducted by the staff of the county health department under the direction of Dr. N. Sifritt, health commissioner.

The immunization and tests were given in several schools during December and the work is being completed this month. Dr. Sifritt and his assistants this week visited LaRue, Caledonia, Martel, Kirkpatrick, Campbell and Lawrence schools and today visited Waldo and Claridon.

The work will close with visits to Meeker and Reber schools next Tuesday. Pupils of all grades are included to determine their susceptibility to the disease by Schick tests and those shown to be susceptible are immunized. The program of testing has been carried out along with the regular visits of the nurses to the various schools.

Nurses assisting with the work are Miss Mary Brenneman, supervisor, and Nurses Pauline Buchman, Mary M. Smith and Joyce Klima.

UNDER THE TRACKS

Editor of The Star: Now that crossing safety is receiving serious consideration, may we offer a suggestion?

We suggest that Campbell street be extended north to the north-south jog in Owens street, passing under the tracks at Mill, and under or through the present yards of the Marion Lumber Co. Campbell street could be extended on through to Chestnut or even to Silver street, eventually.

In the meantime, wouldn't it be worth while to try to deflect a part of the north-south traffic through under the tracks on Leader?

MRS. GEARHISER OF W. COLUMBIA ST. DIES

Funeral Services To Be Held Saturday at 3 P. M.

Mrs. Sallie Virginia Gearhiser, 82, a resident of Marion for many years, died yesterday at 2:45 p. m. at her home at 557 West Columbia street. She had been ill two years.

Mrs. Gearhiser, who was known among her friends as "Jennie," was a native of Iowa, born on July 27, 1857 to Edwin and Martha Brown Row, native of New York state. She was married on Dec. 27, 1879 to Fred Thombs. On Jan. 10, 1894 she married George W. Gearhiser, who preceded her in death 21 years ago.

Surviving are five children, Mrs. Minnie Gelbaugh and Mrs. Mabel Baughn of the home where she died, Mrs. Bertha Black of Westerville, Carl Thombs of Toledo and John Thombs of Akron.

Mrs. Gearhiser was a member of Central Christian church.

The funeral will be conducted Saturday at 3 p. m. at the church. Dr. Harry L. Bell, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the home until 2 p. m. Saturday when the body will be taken to the church.

AVIATION BOOSTERS TO HEAR PATROLMAN

Arrangements Also Made for Annual Pig Roast.

Plans for a talk by a state highway patrol representative on the patrol's new duties in connection with aeronautical regulations were made last night when the Marion Aviation Boosters club met at the Knights of Columbus hall. Harold Dickerson presided and about 20 attended.

The state patrol, under a new arrangement, is privileged to make inspections for possible violations and then report to aeronautics authorities.

The club also made plans to have a showing of U. S. navy moving pictures which are being handled through the Marion recruiting office. Movies taken by Charles Morbitt, club member, of a recent visit of some 20 Columbus planes here were shown.

Plans were also discussed for the club's second annual pig roast next month.

NORMAN THOMAS TO BROADCAST TONIGHT

Norman Thomas, former Marion man who has been Socialist candidate for president several times, will speak on a nation-wide radio hookup tonight on "America Faces 1940." The talk will start at 9:15 over WEAF-NBC.

Other features tonight:

Return of series "Human Nature in Action" at 10:45 over WEAF-NBC; Lucille Manners concert at 8 over WEAF-NBC; Prof Quiz at 7:30 over CBS; Fannie Hurst drama at 7:30 over WJZ-NBC; Benny Venuta program at 9:30 over MBS.

MARION CO. NATIVE DIES AT COLUMBUS

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD, O., Jan. 12—Mrs. Ollie Tilton McMullen, 52, a native of Marion county, died last night at her home in Columbus after a three-week illness. Until her marriage in 1923 to the late Robert J. McMullen she lived in the vicinity of LaRue. Mrs. McMullen was born Feb. 8, 1887 to Ebb and Mary J. Jones Tilton. She was a member of the Baptist church at LaRue. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Robert Stevenson of Columbus, two brothers, Starley and Lawrence Tilton, both of LaRue, and a sister, Mrs. Vern Pfeiffer of Agosta. After 6 tonight friends may call at the sister's home. The funeral will be conducted Sunday at 2 p. m. at the LaRue Baptist church, followed by burial in the LaRue cemetery.

WALDO TO ORGANIZE BOY SCOUT TROOP

Marion Group To Take Part In Tuesday Ceremonies.

Plans for organizing a Boy Scout troop at Waldo next Tuesday night were announced today by Whetstone lodge, Knights of Pythias, which will sponsor the troop. Richard Miller of Marion, Marion district scout commissioner, and also some Marion scouts will attend the Tuesday meeting at the K. of P. hall in Waldo. The K. of P. scout committee will also be present.

Plans for the organization were made at a meeting Wednesday night attended by 18 boys, Mr. Miller, the troop committee and Rev. R. L. Barr.

It was announced that a delegation from Whetstone lodge will go to Sycamore Friday night to serve in installation of officers at a public ceremony in the school auditorium.

Next Monday night the Waldo K. of P. basketball team will play the Caledonia Independents at Waldo.

On Jan. 22 the Waldo third degree team will put on degree work at a Union county meeting at Magnetic Springs.

FEWER NYA YOUTHS GET PRIVATE JOBS

A current downward trend in the number of national youth administration workers leaving projects for private employment in Marion county was pointed out today in the monthly report of Paul V. Jaqua, local NYA supervisor. In November no youths obtained private employment as compared with five who left the NYA during the two preceding months for jobs in business and industry.

The local trend follows a statewide decrease in the number of youths obtaining private employment, according to S. Burns Weston, state NYA administrator.

Statewide figures on the number of NYA youth who have received private employment in recent months follow: Girls—August, 71, September, 59, October, 126 and November, 46; Boys—August, 215; September, 353; October, 453 and November, 220.

Montgomery County Wins First Prize in Annual Farm Fair Competition

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13—[illegible] managers were homeward today after deciding [illegible] annual convention that Montgomery county offered 1939's best exposition and that they were opposed to the United States [illegible] association's plan to [illegible] the rival American Trotting Association.

The resolution hitting the U. S. T. A. came as a distinct surprise, as Ohio horsemen gave no hint of the annual speed meeting Wednesday that they were not in accord with the recent ruling regarding all-American race horses to the free-for-all classes entered in U. S. T. A. meetings.

Montgomery country won the coveted Myers Y. Cooper "best fair" trophy. Brown county, which drew 40,000 persons to a three-day event in a county having but 23,000 inhabitants, was second; Coshocton county third, and Wayne county fourth.

Those four county fairs were named "best" in their population group, Montgomery leading the larger expositions, Wayne the next sector, Coshocton the third, and Brown the smaller contingent.

Certificates of excellence in each of the four groups were awarded the leaders in various departments. Voted best in "A" group were: Montgomery—Speed horses, swine, farm products, and school exhibits; Stark—Horses other than speed; Mahoning—Cattle, sheep—Hamilton — Poultry; Cuyahoga—Junior fair, culinary, needlework and fine arts and flower show; Butler—Grange exhibits.

Class "B": Lake—Horses other than speed, poultry, culinery, needlework and fine arts; Fairfield—Speed horses, cattle; Darke Swine, sheep, farm products; Ashtabula—Junior fair; Wayne—Grange exhibits, school exhibits, flower show.

Union County Wins

Class C: Van Wert—Horses other than speed, cattle, farm products, culinery, needlework, fine arts, flower show; Greene—Speed horses; Williams—Swine, sheep; Coshocton—Poultry; Knox—Junior fair; Medina—Grange and school exhibits.

Class D: Brown—Horses other than speed, swine, poultry; Fayette—Speed horses, farm products; Union—Cattle; Carroll—Sheep Adams — Junior fairs; Holmes—Grange exhibits; Henry—Culinery, needlework and fine arts; Monroe—School exhibits; Geauga—Flower show.

Officers reelected for 1940 were: Charles J. Gray of Painesville, president; R. C. Haines of Dayton, vice president; N. E. Stuckey of Van Wert, second vice president; Mrs. Don A. Detrick, Bellefontaine, executive secretary; and B. U. Bell of Xenia, treasurer.

The state board of agriculture reorganized by reelecting Ernest J. Riggs of Gallipolis president and W. J. Galvin of Wilmington vice president, and naming Mrs. C. A. Steele of South Vienna secretary. Paul Jackson of Madisonville became a board member succeeding Paul W. Teegardin of Ashville.

Members were assigned to head departments of the state fair Aug. 24-30, as follows:

Riggs, agriculture and horticulture; J. W. Weaver of Spencerville, Swine; Galvin, speed; Mrs. Steele, fine arts and women's building; Walter J. Buss of Wooster, poultry; C. L. Mitchell of Mansfield, sheep; W. W. Ellenwood of Wellston, beef cattle; Charles E. Stahl of Paulding, machinery, merchandise and dairy products; John W. Galbreath of Columbus, night horse show and draft horses; Jackson, dairy cattle.

IN MEMORIAM

★In loving memory of Gladys M. Reidenbaugh, who died Jan. 12, 1939.

In the graveyard softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave
Lies the one we love so dearly,
But whom we could not save.

You bid no one a last farewell,
You said goodbye to none;
A weary heart had ceased to beat
Before we knew you'd gone.

You shall never be forgotten,
Never shall your memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts shall always linger
Around the grave where you laid.

MARION DRIVER IN MANSFIELD MISHAP

Richard E. Bumford of 381 Nunin court, driver for the Independent Towel & Supply Co. of Cleveland, is in Mansfield General hospital for treatment following an accident Monday morning.

According to word received yesterday by the family, he apparently suffered no broken bones, but was badly bruised and shaken up and complains of a severe pain over his left eye. The hospital reported his condition to be "not serious."

Mr. Bumford had parked his truck on a street in uptown Mansfield and a taxi skidded on the icy pavement into the truck, according to an account of the accident received here. While Mr. Bumford and the driver were trying to get the taxi away from the truck, an automobile driven by a woman skidded into Mr. Bumford, pinning him between the automobile and the taxi.

Mr. Bumford drives from the Independent Co.'s district headquarters in Mansfield to Marion and on to Dunkirk.

More Winter Happiness

THE movement now under way to provide ice skating rinks in Marion for young people—and for that matter, others not so young—is one of those worthy community projects coming under the heading "Why didn't some one think of that before?"

One of the pleasures that residents of inland communities miss is ice skating, and the lack of it most certainly leaves enjoyment of winter incomplete. True, there is the lake at McKinley park where this most exhilarating of all winter sports can be enjoyed, but this spot is far from being adequate in size or convenience. Skaters may also travel to rivers in other sections of the county but comparatively few have the necessary transportation facilities. That applies especially to the hundreds of boys and girls who are the most enthusiastic skaters and whose young lives lack fulfillment without at least a few winter days of thrills on the ice. The new rinks as planned will not only be conveniently located but will give assurance of safety not always found at lakes and rivers.

According to news accounts, credit for the idea goes to the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Salvation Army, with the Marion Water Co. providing free water service and the city service department contributing labor and equipment. Thus the undertaking involves virtually no expense and so provides new evidence to support the assertion that at least some of the best things in life are free.

The only expenditure in this instance has been active interest and effort on the part of organizations in making life happier for people of the community. Without that expenditure, of course, no public welfare service is possible, whether it requires money or not. Fortunate is Marion in having organized groups whose one purpose is to promote the public good and whose thoughts and attention are constantly centered on that goal.

Grim Days

APPARENTLY another shift of war emphasis is occurring. Renewal of raiding in the North sea area, accompanied by Prime Minister Chamberlain's warning to his countrymen of grim days ahead, warns American followers of the conflict to be prepared for a sudden shock. The conflict in Finland soon may be of only secondary interest.

Perhaps it is futile to speculate on what form the shock may take. There is, however, one probability that had best be discounted in advance. If Germany finally does strike at Britain with full fury from the air, the fury probably will not be one-sided.

British air raids against key points of Germany's coast defense have been reported by the war offices of both sides. The British air force, furthermore, has been reorganized and unified as one result of the Hore-Belisha ouster, which German authorities interpreted as an indication of a more aggressive British policy in the future.

If Germany's masters now believe it is time for that all-out war of fury they have threatened to loose, they must reflect that the opposition now is capable of inflicting heavy damage too. The long awaited answer to the question of what the intended victim of "blitzkrieg" will do when warned in advance may be furnished in the near future. Great Britain won't be another Poland.

What Happened

THE budget of the United States isn't any juicier reading than any other budget, but a whale of a lot more important. When President Roosevelt talked about new ways in which the federal government was spending money, this is what he meant:

In the fiscal year 1930, before the depression had sunk its teeth into the national economy, the government spent about three and one third billion dollars. In the fiscal year 1940, the one that's half over now, the government is going to spend more than nine billion dollars.

It will spend 118 per cent more money for national defense than it spent 10 years ago, 59 per cent more for interest on its debt, 81 per cent more for legislative, judicial and civil agencies (the "regular" government), 168 per cent more for regular public works, 744 per cent more for aid to agriculture, and 136 per cent more for everything else that it spent money for in 1930. In addition it will spend approximately two and a half billion dollars for social security, aid to youth and work relief, which had no counterpart in 1930. Debt retirement and payments to veterans are the only categories in which less money will be spent.

This makes it easier to understand why in 1930 there was a net surplus of about half a billion dollars and a net deficit of about three and a third billion dollars in 1940. In other words, this year the government will go in debt for as much as it spent 10 years ago in spite of the fact that its income in the meantime has jumped from $3,841,000,000 to $5,704,000,000.

WHAT MADNESS!

War: A process of acquiring new land for surplus populations who are slain in the war.—Los Angeles Times.

News Behind News

Russians Reported Preparing To Smash Mannerheim Line with Big Guns.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 — The Russians are reported on the inside here to be moving up heavy artillery to clean out the Mannerheim line.

The line is not an entrenched position to the same complete degree as the Siegfried line and west wall. While it has become known as a line, it is merely an arrangement of extemporized trenches, anti-tank devices, and machine gun nests. Accurate shelling could clean it out fast. There are no subterranean passages as on the Western front.

Paul Mallon

Consequently, authorities here would not be surprised to hear of an early conclusion of the Russian offensive. The Reds have the guns, these have now been moved into place, and the only question is whether the aim of the generals is as cockeyed as their political doctrines.

More On Hore-Belisha

The story being told here is that Hore-Belisha's resignation from the British cabinet was forced by an inside fight over handling the British air force. The air arm of the British forces in France is now under the army generals. Before the minister's resignation it was an independent force.

The generals had a fairly good case against him because few military authorities believe airplanes can function as an individual unit apart from general army and navy purposes.

However, this seems a rather flimsy cause for the abandonment of an inspiring British leader. Officials here think there is something more behind it but they do not know what.

Note: Only change in conduct of the war expected here as a result of the shakeup is further concentrated control over the British air force in France by the generals.

British Morale

If you read Premier Chamberlain's speech, you wasted your time. It was intended primarily to bolster domestic morale. There is not the slightest chance of a land attack unless Hitler starts scratching his vest like Napoleon and overrules his army general staff.

Morale in England is reported fairly good considering this enlightened day of independent thinking, but it is not so good that the government can avoid consideration of the subject.

Continuation of efforts to buoy the spirits of the British populace is to be expected from now on.

Congress Unenthusiastic

Enthusiasm has seldom been less noticeable in a session of congress. The leaders are going about the business of correcting technical defects, such as the TNEC investigation of insurance companies, the Harrison movement to provide a system of independent congressional investigation of budget claims, the well worn anti-lynching bill which always passes the house and never passes the senate, etc.

The generally approved tendency of congress is to let anything important slide until after the elections.

Example

The utter lack of comment in congress concerning the President's Jackson day speech is an illustration of the new tone. Even the Republicans refrained from anything more than perfunctory criticism.

The presidential challenge which Senator Taft answered with a detailed analysis of how the budget could be balanced has likewise failed to interest the legislative politicos.

Prevailing opinion there seems to favor independent budget making and legislative action in a minor technical way without regard for the President's advice.

Easy Money

Note: If you want to pick up some easy money please consult ardent New Dealers who believe Roosevelt and Senator James Byrnes of South Carolina will be the 1940 ticket. They will bet you even money, under prodding.

Dies Committee Regards Publicity Rather Than Legislation as Its Principal Weapon.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE Dies committee was created by the house of representatives on May 26, 1938, to investigate subversive and un-American propaganda and "all other questions in relation thereto that would aid congress in any necessary remedial legislation." After working for a year and a half the committee has just reported to congress that they do not "think the investigation has proceeded far enough to justify us in recommending legislation to congress. We need and can secure much more information, not only from sections of the country that we have investigated but also from the larger areas that we have not even touched, before recommending legislation to congress. Even after we are supplied with full and complete information and facts, several months of consideration must be devoted to the question of legislation. This will require expert assistance and thorough research."

Walter Lippmann

So the committee asks for another two years of life and an appropriation of at least $150,000.

It is evident, however, that the committee does not put much faith in the legislation that it may eventually recommend. On page 13 of its report it states that "congress does not have the power to deny to citizens the right to believe in, teach, or advocate, Communism, Fascism and Nazism." Thus the committee is precluded from recommending legislation which would prohibit citizens, Mr. Earl Browder and Mr. Fritz Kuhn for example, from conducting un-American and subversive propaganda.

No Legislation Ready

What sort of legislation, then can the committee eventually recommend? The committee holds that, in principle, it can recommend legislation to deport aliens who conduct such propaganda; it holds that congress could, in principle, outlaw any organization found to be under the control or the dictation of a foreign government as for example the Communist party and the Bund; or that congress could require such organizations to make a public disclosure of their membership and their funds. But the committee is not ready to suggest legislation of this sort.

This reluctance to recommend legislation is the crux of the matter. The reluctance arises, we may suppose, from a realization on the part of the committee that legislation of this character would be extremely difficult to enforce. But more than that, the kind of legislation which congress has power to enact could not get at the real problem which their investigation has disclosed. For the essential thing about these subversive movements is that their directing chiefs and the true believers feel bound by no rule of law or morals; there is no form of subterfuge, concealment, or perjury which they do not feel fanatically entitled to employ.

The naive may shut their eyes to this. But it is the quintessence of the whole problem. For even supposing that within the framework of the Constitution it were possible to frame and enact a law against these revolutionary conspiracies, the prosecuting officers, the juries and the judges would not convict without legal evidence that would be extremely difficult to obtain. The case of Al Capone, convicted as I remember not for his real offenses against society but for income tax evasion, or the case of Fritz Kuhn convicted for a petty offense against his own followers and dupes, shows how difficult it is to legislate, detect, prosecute and convict members of the organized underworld. By their absolute and total lawlessness they elude, much more readily than other men, the clutches of the law.

Power of Publicity

That is the reason, I take it, why the committee is so half-hearted about legislation, and why they wish to continue "investigating" rather than to begin legislating. Although they do not say so plainly in their official report, it is, I think, evident that the remedy in which they put their faith is what they call (on page 13) "the right to focus the spotlight of publicity" upon revolutionary activity. In other words, the remedy is not in what the Dies committee will eventually recommend to congress but in what the Dies committee is now exposing in the newspapers.

The Dies committee is not really a legislative committee. It is a kind of committee of public safety set up by congress to suppress activities which, though detested by the great majority of the people, are in themselves either not unlawful, or, even if they were outlawed, could not be dealt with by the ordinary procedure of the law. The Dies committee members are official vigilantes operating in an area, that of the political underworld, where there is as yet no effective law and there is, therefore, no order. The committeemen, like their vigilante predecessors on the American frontier, are, therefore, themselves often lawless in spirit and disorderly in their methods.

This accounts for the somewhat shame-faced approval which thoughtful men have given to the work of the committee. The public is confronted with the ancient moral question of whether the end justifies the means. Thus, only the very innocent and self-deluding have any doubt that the Dies committee has been attacking a formidable evil in modern society. The menace is real. It is not imaginary. And it must be met. Yet there is no doubt also that the procedure of the Dies committee is itself a violation of American morality: it is a pillory in which reputations are ruined, often without proof and always without the legal safeguards that protect the ordinary criminal; it is a tribunal before which men are arraigned and charged with acts that are, as a matter of fact, lawful.

Therefore, the end, which is to protect the American system, is attained by means which, if used for some other end, would be deplored by every one—by every one, except, of course, the revolutionists whom Mr. Dies is stalking.

Taft a Phrase Maker

"Regulatory Policies" of New Deal One of His Targets.

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Senator Taft of Ohio has advanced far enough long as a presidential candidate that he can call a press conference and expect a good attendance, a dozen or more reporters.

He doesn't conduct his conferences with the booming vivacity of President Roosevelt—but gadzooks, who does?

Sen. Taft

Taft is a trifle on the shy side. He shimmies about on his chair at times and laughs in a half - apologetic fashion as he talks.

Maybe he is like his presidential father in some respects but he has no belly laugh. That may or may not qualify him in your eyes as a Republican presidential prospect, depending on whether you like people with belly laughs.

In his campaigning about the country he has devised a phrase or two which probably will pepper the speeches he will be making during the current session. He deplores the "financial policies and excessive character of the regulatory policies of the New Deal." The "regulatory policies," he said, apply to such things as agriculture and the constant wage-hour and social security reports and inspections.

Should Win Support

The latter ought to get the vote of the Junior Chamber of Commerce because just recently it distributed a blast against the excessive number of reports business men have to submit to the government.

Taft is for "adequate national defense," a phrase virtually copyrighted by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Taft, like the veterans' organizations, didn't want to go into details about it.

However, the two billion dollar national defense program coming up before the present session, ought to be "closely scrutinized" to see whether more national defense could not be had for less money.

Taft doesn't seem to be any more of a flag-waver than the average presidential candidate. He said he favored enough tariff to meet the higher costs of American production. If he had wanted to flag-wave a bit he might have tuba-dub-dubbed about "protecting the American workman from low cost alien labor."

Wishful Thinking

His office is about the average senate office. He reserves one room for himself and fills the other three with clerks, desks, filing cabinets and chairs for callers. In contrast to President Roosevelt, he had no gadgets on his desk.

He has no pictures of himself on display but has one of his father, flanked by a flag, on the fireplace mantel.

Framed on the wall is a front page of the old New York Herald dated Nov. 4, 1908. It carries a five column head saying:

"Taft sweeps the nation, Bryan and Taft neck and neck in this city."

Son Robert would like to see those first four words in headlines next November. Also he would like to receive the message printed at the bottom of the page. It said: "My heartiest congratulations upon your splendid victory." It was signed by Charles Evans Hughes.

Thought From the Press

We would suggest that all presidential aspirants get southern gals for front office greeters. These mid-western types, such as the one in Taft's office, doubtless get all the letters filed away without losing any, but it takes a South Carolina or Kentucky chatterbox to make you happy about waiting an hour for an appointment.

GOD'S NEW COVENANT: Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah: not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day that I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt, which my covenant they brake, although I was an husband unto them, saith the Lord: but this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel: After those days, saith the Lord, I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts: and will be their God, and they shall be my people.—Jeremiah 31:31-33

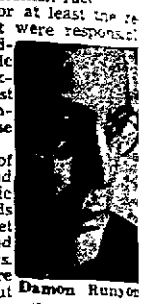
Laziness

Our Old Man Insisted There Was a Lot in Its Favor Because Disciples Had Time To Burn.

By DAMON RUNYON

OUR old man said lazy men never got the credit to which they were entitled. He said whenever anybody spoke of a man as lazy, it was always as if he were guilty of a crime whereas the truth of the matter was the lazy man was a benefactor of the human race.

He said it was lazy men, or at least the requirements of lazy men, that were responsible for most of the mechanical advancement of civilization. He said they were always thinking up things that would assist them in their laziness, or inspiring others to think up these things.



Damon Runyon

Our old man said most of the labor saving devices and comforts of home and public life were due to the demands of lazy men, such as street cars, and push buttons, and elevators, and revolving doors. He said these things were spoken of as conveniences, but convenience was often just another name for laziness.

He said lazy men had discovered great many life truths while just lazying around doing little offhand thinking, like the time Isaac Newton discovered the law of gravitation while lying on his back and seeing an apple fall. Our old man said he would bet most philosophers were lazy men because if they had been hustling around they would not have had the leisure to think.

HE said he was inclined to think lazy men should have credit for some of our best statesmanship. He said politicians were usually lazy men who got themselves elected, then they became statesmen, evolving excellent laws out of their laziness, which gave them time to think.

Our old man said he knew of no life more appealing to a lazy man than sitting in a comfortable chair in a well ventilated hall like the senate or congressional chamber, at a fat salary, with nothing to do but think.

He said it was his guess that 50 per cent of mankind was born lazy and that given a choice they would do no work whatever. He said they soon found out, however, that to make laziness a career they had to have capital and that therefore they worked and schemed to make money so they could retire to complete laziness as soon as possible.

He said as a result, they were constantly dropping out of active life, leaving room for younger men, probably of the same ambition. He said this creating of vacancies was one of the great boons to humanity of the lazy man. He said that if all men were born industrious they would keep on working like the dickens to the very end of their days, even when they did not need to, thus blocking the paths of younger men.

OUR old man said all fields of endeavor would soon be overloaded with industrious men if it wasn't for laziness. He said he felt that this would clog the wheels of progress. He said any time he heard of some rich old fellow hustling down to his business at break of dawn and working at it all day, he rejoiced in the old boy's vitality but thought him entitled to no more credit than a squirrel keeping the wheel in his cage revolving.

Our old man said he guessed he, himself was one of the laziest men that ever lived. He said it was true he worked every day but only because he felt the spur of hunger and that even when he worked it was in hope that something would happen so he could knock off for good.

He said he enjoyed his work all right, but felt he would enjoy not working even more. He said he had heard of men who worked who they did not need to work because they enjoyed it, but that he sometimes wondered if that was not an excuse for avarice, or selfishness.

Our old man said his granddaughter was bound for work and had once said to him, go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways and be wise. Our old man said he grasped the meaning of the grandfatherly admonition and took up a study of ants but that they struck him as doing a lot of futile running around and never seemed to be having any fun.

HE said he dismissed them as a possible source of inspiration and turned to a bear he met up with when he went west. He said this bear used to sleep all winter long, not doing a lick of work in that period. In the summer he would mosey about the wildwood, as lazy as you please, but always enjoying himself.

It could find plenty of food without too much effort. Sometimes it would locate a bee tree and knock off the bees' store of honey. Our old man said he thought it was rather ironic that those busy bees had to work like blazes half a year to accumulate that honey and that in five minutes the big lazy bear would eat it all up. He said he decided that of all the creatures of the earth, the bear seemed to have the best idea.

Life After Fifty

PLANNING for the future instead of living in retrospect is the most effective method of adjusting oneself to life after the age of 5[illegible] Carl Bond, Mahwah, N. J., suggests in the January issue of Hygeia, The Health Magazine.

"Think only of tomorrow, plan for tomorrow and prevent your brains from calling up thoughts of yourself in the past tense," he advises.

The temptation to pretend one is as young as he used to be should be strongly resisted. Mr. Bond says. "Be well groomed at all times," he urges. "Dress neither as a youth nor as a has-been.' Go to parties if and when invited but do not try to be 'the life of the party.'

"Your health demands your thoughtful attention, with care being taken to banish all hypochondriac tendencies. If you haven't done so recently, go to your physician and let him give you a thorough going over. You may be in far better shape than you think, or conditions may show up that call for medical treatment.

"No matter how young and vigorous you may feel, take time out for rest whenever you can. The languorous fatigue that makes an armchair feel friendly to your bones and muscles is not at all harmful, even does good. It is the dead-beat weariness that weakens you and lessens your resistance to colds and influenza. Keep in mind that digestion uses up a lot of energy, especially when the stomach is overloaded.

"Weight is the bugbear of the majority of men and nearly all women as they pass the half-century milestone. Moderation should rule in all you do to take off weight. Reducing more than 2 pounds a week is likely to be harmful. The rate of weight loss is less important than that progress be steadily made. When you find you aren't getting winded so often from slight exertion, you may know you are on the right road.

"Whether you like it or not, walking is still man's best standby in keeping a good circulation, firm muscles and a dependable breathing apparatus. A light setting-up drill, adjusted to your age and condition, is helpful the first thing in the morning. It should be slow, lasting from six to eight minutes, and should include work for the arms and legs as well as some stooping, bending and twisting."

Mussolini's Spurt in Balkans Takes World Spotlight

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Signor Mussolini's sudden spurt of progress with his scheme for forming Hungary and the Balkans into a defensive bloc against Russia—and in effect against Germany—has swung the attention of Europe to this highly strategic peninsula and to the Fascist chieftain, who has been pursuing an enigmatic neutrality since the outbreak of war

Il duce's reported success in making a defensive alliance with Hungary, thereby throwing a barrier across an important highway to the peninsula, indicates that he finally is getting ahead with a program which long has engaged his efforts. Up to this juncture the Balkans have regarded the Fascist chieftain with considerable suspicion, fearing ulterior motives, but they now seem to be veering round in his direction

Balance of Power

Should Mussolini attain his goal it would provide a major sensation It would mean that the united Balkans, which saw the whelping of the World war, might control sufficient resources to be able to swing the balance in this new conflict.

Germany has been banking mightily on continued domination of the resources of the Balkans to help defeat the naval blockade and win the war The formation of a bloc would deprive the nation of domination, and most likely accelerate the flow of supplies which recently have been going forward to the Anglo-French allies instead of Germany

Thus Mussolini's present operations, whether they are calculated to or not do in fact work against the interest of his axis partner and to the advantage of the allies. This situation isn't surprising for many observers long have felt that il duce was cooling rapidly toward the Berlin-Rome axis.

Faces Two Problems

Mussolini's chief problems are two—he must win the confidence of suspicious statesmen, and he must settle several nasty quarrels among countries which have been tossing the apple of discord about like a hand-ball One of these disputes involves Hungary's demand that Rumania return the great territory of Transylvania which the Rumanians got at the end of the World war Il duce already has persuaded the two nations to negotiate

Attendants at Bucyrus City hospital said he suffered back and chest injuries.

Deputy Sheriff Henry Frey said Neutzman parked his car on the highway and was changing a front tire when his auto was struck by a car driven by Kenneth W Scott of Galion The impact shoved the Neutzman car several feet, knocking Mr Neutzman to the pavement

Deputy Frey quoted Scott as saying he failed to see the Neutzman car because of a dense fog Neutzman was removed to the hospital in the Bringman & Co ambulance from Upper Sandusky

FARM AID PROGRAM ATTACKED BY PEEK

By The Associated Press

DENVER, Jan 12—George N Peek, first administrator of the agricultural adjustment act, accused the national administration today of treating agriculture and foreign trade 'as though they were totally separate and unrelated problems

'It is like trying to ride two horses going in opposite directions at the same time" the Moline Ill man said in an address prepared for delivery before the American National Livestock Association's 43rd convention

In domestic legislation Peek charged, the administration has attempted "to raise domestic price levels independent of world price levels." In foreign trade activities, "it has pursued a policy of low tariffs free trade and internationalism disregarding wage, price and living conditions in this country compared with those in the world at large"

FATE OF WALLACE PLAN UNDETERMINED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan 12 — On the support or lack of support of the American Farm Bureau federation largely depends the fate of Secretary Wallace's farm certificate plan

The secretary talked the matter over with Farm Bureau officials a few days ago at Chicago Then they came to Washington for a talk with President Roosevelt. But their final position is yet to be announced

Under the plan, producers of specified crops would receive certificates from the government which processors and other crop purchasers would have to buy The certificates would be valued at the difference between the parity price, or pre-1914 purchasing level, of such crops, and the lower market value

PRESIDENT SEEKING HELP FOR FINLAND

Asks Leaders of Both Parties To Assist

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan 12—President Roosevelt said today he had asked congressional leaders of both parties to work out the problem of giving assistance to Finland

The Chief Executive had disclosed Tuesday that he was discussing the matter of aid to Finland with the state department

Asked at his press conference today whether the conversations had resulted in any decisions, he replied in the negative

He went on to say however, that the question of providing assistance to the Finns ought not to become one of partisan politics In other words, he said, the Russian attack on Finland the destitution of large numbers of people and the need for maintaining Finnish independence, should not be party matter over here.

districts were pointed out by Mr Roller who termed the award 'especially praiseworthy since there are so many obstacles of terrain in this district"

'The Marion district is in competition with some of the best railroads in the United States but under Mr Spark's leadership and with the aid of his foremen and workers the tracks here are steadily being improved until they rank among the best in the system' Mr Roller declared

Reporting that 35,000 000 tons of coal as well as other freight was hauled over the 72 miles of the Marion district last year, Mr Roller pointed out that the annual tonnage over the tracks is the largest in the C & O system and "probably the largest in the world

Praises Workers

Called upon by Mr Roller to tell how he won the improvement prize, Mr Sparks asked his foremen and assistant foremen to stand Motioning toward them, he said 'That's how I did it. I played a very small part I just took the job to them and they did it"

Mr Roller congratulated Mr. Sparks and his workers in behalf of the railroad officials and also read a congratulatory telegram from Mayor Russell C. Snare

Mr Sparks, who lives at 187 Superior street, has spent 52 of his 70 years in railroading and since 1921 has held his present post as district track supervisor here He became associated with the C, & O railroad 20 years ago after working for the New York Central system for 32 years.

Short talks were given by W. H Sparks of Cleveland, general inspector of tracks; C. M. Ryder of Marion, assistant trainmaster; William Shannon of Columbus, division safety inspector; W. H Miller of Columbus, division supervisor of signals; C. F. Edwards of Columbus, supervisor of tracks for the Columbus district; William Martin of Columbus, chief clerk to the division engineer; J. W. Price of Columbus, division supervisor of water supply; and John O'Farrell of Columbus, assistant cost engineer for the Hocking division.

Other Guests

Others present at the banquet were John Southard of Columbus, assistant cost engineer; F. W. Everett of Marion, local freight agent; L. E. Mohrman, chief clerk of the Union depot; A. M. Morrison, C. & O. railroad detective; [illegible]

NEW CITY FLUSHER CLEARS AWAY SLUSH

While most of the state was washing through melting snow and ice today, Marion pedestrians experienced few discomforts, thanks to the city's new street flusher

Yesterday afternoon the city's maintenance workers kept the flusher busy cleaning dirt and melting snow from street intersections throughout the city Although the new equipment, purchased last summer, has been used regularly to wash dirt from the streets it had not been used until yesterday to combat slush, city officials reported

MARIONITE REPORTS HOLDUP ON STREET

Tells Police Bandit Robbed Him on Leader St.

Melvin Hunt of 430 West Center street reported to police that an armed, unmasked bandit held him up and robbed him of $72 as he was passing his car on Leader street near Center street about 7 45 p m yesterday

Mr Hunt told officers he was locking his automobile when a man walked up to him, drew a blue-steel automatic pistol, and announced 'This is a stick-up' The bandit took a billfold containing $72 in currency and fled on foot, warning Hunt not to follow, police were told

Mr Hunt went to the Donough Sohio filling station at the corner of Center and Leader streets and notified police

The bandit was described as being about 5 feet 8 inches in height and weighing 160 to 170 pounds He was wearing a black overcoat and a dark hat, Mr. Hunt reported

HOUSE PASSES ARMS BILL BY BIG VOTE

Emergency Defense Fund of $264,611,252 Provided.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan 12—The house passed by an overwhelming vote today a $264,611 252 emergency defense appropriation for use of the army navy, coast guard and federal bureau of investigation

Just before the final voice vote, the house rejected a motion by Rep Schafer Republican of Wisconsin to send the bill back to the appropriations committee with instructions to write in a prohibition against using any of the funds for construction, maintenance or operation of ships engaged in patrol of what he called the "300 mile Welles neutrality zone'

(Sumner Welles undersecretary of state, was instrumental in bringing about the Pan-American agreement declaring the zone in existence)

There were only a few scattered noes when the question was put on final passage and no roll call was demanded The measure now goes to the senate

The bill represented President Roosevelt's recommendation for emergency expenditures for national defense and neutrality The money is for the remainder of the current fiscal year which ends June 30

AMERICAN WOMAN GETS JAP APOLOGY

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Jan 12—Japanese naval authorities today visited Miss Frances Donaldson of Louisville, Ky., and apologized for an attack on her by a Japanese sentry.

They acknowledged the truth of the American business woman's report that on Dec. 30 a sentry struck her with his fist when she crossed a bridge into the International Settlement, walking inadvertently on what the Japanese consider the "wrong side" of the street.

Miss Donaldson accepted the Japanese apology. She represents an embroidery exporting concern.

BEIGHTLER REPORTS ROAD COST $ CUT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12—A $1,597,027 slash in 1939 state highway personnel costs as compared with 1938 was reported today by Director Robert S. Beightler.

This was effected despite the fact that the year's construction program was the largest in the state's history, and the maintenance department did twice as much resurfacing work as in 1938, Beightler asserted.

He attributed the saving to "normal operation, and the elimination of unnecessary job holders."

BURGLARY AND THREE THEFTS REPORTED

Insurance Office Is Looted in Daylight Breakin.

A burglary and three thefts were reported to police yesterday and this morning

George Orians, Marion insurance agent, reported to police his office at 132½ East Center street was broken into during the lunch hour yesterday and a small amount of cash and a quantity of stamps taken

The stamps and money estimated at $2, were taken from a desk drawer The theft was discovered later in the afternoon when Mr. Orians started to make change for a customer Police investigating the break-in reported there were marks indicating that entrance had been gained by prying open a lock on a door leading from a hallway into the office

Sergeant Jack F. Ellison of the Pennsylvania railroad police reported that maintenance equipment valued at $100 was taken from a small storage building on the railroad property near Silver street, apparently sometime Wednesday night, included in the loot were 400 steel tie plates, a railroad switch rod and a switch gauge plate

Ray Simmons of 312 South Grand avenue reported to police a defroster fan and a gear shift knob were taken from his unlocked automobile while parked at the rear of Bodley's barbecue on North Main street last night

Paul Jones of 381 North Main street reported a tail light was taken from his bicycle while parked at the rear of his home last night.

PLANES

sharpening anti-air raid vigilance at certain coast points and increasing the number of anti-aircraft guns along the shore.

Britain apparently was preparing also to deal blow for blow in any intensified warfare

The air ministry disclosed that new super-fighting planes, a long-range type "of very high speed," were in production It said the time had not yet come to use them but when it does, there may be some surprises—especially in the numbers which are likely to be used"

The Supermarine Spitfire capable of almost 400 miles an hour, is Britain's fastest plane now and some British authorities have called it the world's fastest.

An air raid warning was sounded in only one area during the German flights yesterday

Thousands of persons watched the white puffs of anti-aircraft shells bursting around the German planes. At one east coast resort crowds lined the cliffs to watch an invading bomber attack a small steamer several miles from shore

British fliers rose to meet the German planes and in one instance a formation of three R. A. F. craft was said to have damaged and chased a Heinkel bomber as it circled 50 feet over three cargo vessels.

Olina Suspicious As Madge Summons Her at Queen's Request

DICKY tucked a hand companionably under my elbow and guided me down the steps of the porch toward the tennis court.

"All right," he said, grinning. "Shoot the works!"

"I'm going to begin at the beginning," I said. "Otherwise, you won't be able to understand the cause of my mirth."

"Something Katie said, I'll bet a frayed nickle," Dicky sagely observed.

"I won't take you," I returned, and forthwith told him as briefly as possible of Olina's secret phone call to Philip Veritzen, of my momentous interview with Queen Olga and the confidences I had retailed to her, of the queen's decision to marry Philip Veritzen, of her request to summon Olina and her second one for ice.

Katie's "Dee-duction"

"Which brings me to Katie," I said, and told him of our faithful helper's "dee-duction" concerning Queen Olga, and her comment upon the "queen's old boy friend."

"No wonder you were in stitches," Dicky gasped when he had recovered from his first paroxysm of laughter. "Pity old Phil couldn't have heard her," and he was off again in another paroxysm.

"The girls will hear you," I admonished, and he straightened up obediently.

"Claim is my other name," he murmured with a sober face. "But oh! Mrs. Fixit, what a swath you've been cutting!"

There was so much real admiration in his voice that I did not feel my usual annoyance at the teasing cognomen so familiar to me.

Asks His Opinion

"Tell me," I said in a hurried whisper, for we were very near the tennis court where Mary and Olina were engaged in a spirited battle, "do you think I did wrong in betraying Philip Veritzen's confidence"

"Theoretically, you've violated so many social canons that at this second you're virtually a pariah," my husband said teasingly. Then he paused impressively and added, with a serious face turned toward me:

"But, practically speaking, you've straightened out two or three mighty crooked paths, and you ought to be mighty proud of yourself. I'm proud of you, Mrs. Fixit."

"Thank you," I said smiling at him. We had time for nothing more, for with a petulish exclamation, Olina threw down her racquet and, running to the net, shook hands with Mary.

Won't Try Any More

"I'll never be able to beat you," she said, laughing, but with a disappointed note in her voice. "I'm not going to try any more."

"Oh yes you are!" Mary said generously, and I guessed what an effort it was for her to preserve a sporting attitude towards this girl, who, thoughtlessly, or with deliberation, was making life so difficult for her. "You're going on until you beat me. You can, if you only think so. In the vernacular, temporarily I've 'got your number,' that's all. But here are Aunt Madge and Uncle Dicky. Do you want the court?"

"No," Dicky said emphatically, "and your Aunt Madge is the bearer of a message to Garcia, or words to that effect."

Both girls looked at me attentively, and I hurried to explain.

"Your mother wishes you to come to her room immediately," I said, addressing Olina.

"You don't know why she wants me, do you?" Olina asked, patently too anxious and nervous to use her usual elaborate courtesy.

"I think she said something about wishing you to help her dress," I said, and regretted the speech the next instant when Olina shot a frankly suspicious look at me, and then said hurriedly:

"Please excuse me. I must go at once."

She set off almost at a run for the house, and Mary's eyes were bright and curious as they watched her.

"Whatever does that mean?" she asked, half to herself

CHAPTER 35

Reunion

H... Barbara inquired ...y.

...er a swift hug. "Oh, ... I'm so glad to see ... He's—not so good."

...so good?"

... in a taxi, driving ...ding field to Forest's ...

... talking about it all: ... and death. I mean. ... had these attacks be- ... wanted a medical ex- ... it she was too afraid ...an an operation; how ... reproached himself a ... times that he didn't take ... for in spite of herself; ... attack came and the ... captured and neither of ... realized anything except ... pain was gone; and then ... him that night, moan- ... out of her head—"

"For heaven's sake, Sue!"

"Yes, it's awful, I can't get him ... I couldn't get him to bed ... until I'd sent for a doc- ... that's why he wasn't there to ... you this morning. He's still ... from the opiate he was ... at midnight."

"You poor dear!" Barbara ... at her friend affectionate- ... Her brother's elopement with ... wife had done nothing to ... her friendship with Sue. ... were angel-good to come be- ... Pats wanted you. But it was ... wasn't it? I mean her insist- ... on having you here."

"I don't believe she had the ... idea of wanting me. ... another thing that upsets ... He's got it into his head ... Pats had something impor- ... to say to me, and that if he'd ... called me sooner I could ... got here in time. I hope ... will go your best to convince ... it was nothing—it could have ... nothing, Barb."

"You'll stay, Sue?"

"Until after the funeral, of ... Then I must go back. What ... you do, Barbara?"

A lovely color dyed her face ... Sue looked at her sharply. ... Allen—at last? Were the ... of her brother, for so long ... to this girl's love, open after ... these years? Sue devoutly ... so.

Things went better after Bar- ...'s arrival. Forest became ... reasonable. He rested, al- ...owed the two women to attend ... such details as they could deal ... went through the funeral ... with composure.

There was only a pitiful hand- ... at the chapel. Evidently the ... Webbs had not made many ... in New York.

"And now, by dear, I must be thinking of going home," Sue said the next morning.

Forest had gone to his office, a sad, quiet man who assented almost listlessly to any plan made for him. Sue and Barbara had lingered on at the breakfast table after his departure.

Barbara, while not exactly admitting there was an understanding between herself and Allen, had been shyly skirting the subject. Sue smiled and let her take her time. She could understand that this was hardly the hour or place to make such an announcement; nevertheless the thought of Allen's being happy at last brought her deep happiness.

The telephone rang. "It must be Forest," Barbara muttered. "I don't know a soul—"

"It's for you," she announced suddenly. "Some man, Sue."

Eric

Without the slightest throb of premonition, Sue answered. Even when Eric's voice spoke her name, no realization at first came to her. She had not thought of him as being in New York. Her mind and heart had been filled with Forest and his grief these last crowded days. She said numbly: "Eric!"

"Yes, Eric, Sue. Where and when can I see you?"

"Why—why—" She glanced about. Barbara had withdrawn to the tiny kitchen and begun to wash the few dishes. "How did you know I was here?"

"I saw the notice of Patsy's death and wondered if you'd come. I watched you arrive at the chapel yesterday—I was outside. Sue, I must see you!"

"That's—that's impossible." Her heart had begun to hammer, her breath was coming raggedly. "There is no place here—"

"Say you have an errand this afternoon." It was his old imperious voice. "I'll be waiting for you in a taxi. At four, Sue!"

She assented without argument.

At four, a car, not a taxi, stood in front of the building. Eric sprang out from it as Sue appeared.

"My dear!" he said. "My dear!" and then before she could answer he hurried her into the back seat and gave the driver a direction.

The tearoom where Sue presently found herself was quite deserted at this early hour. Their order was taken by a middle-aged waitress who served them swiftly and then disappeared. Eric pushed away his plate of cinnamon toast.

"Sue, you lovely thing!"

The ardor in his voice made her eyelids fall over her upward glance. She had felt a little bit countryfied and simple as she donned the dark blue swiss she had worn in the plane. She could not know how lovely was the column of her throat above the white collar.

She strove for composure. "You're looking well yourself, Eric. What are you doing now? And do you still live in New York?"

His brief, reluctant laugh rolled back the years.

"Such is fame! Sue, you little ignoramus, have you never heard of The Issue?"

"Of course," she returned indignantly. "Everybody reads it."

"Not quite everybody. It's a trifle too expensive for some purses, a trifle—shall we say? too subtle for some tastes."

"Too risque," she amended.

"But clever, Sue? You admit it's infernally clever?"

She nodded. "Both terms are entirely accurate. But what has The Issue to do with you?"

His arms were folded on the table, his smiling face was close.

"I'm the editor, that's all. Do you mean you didn't know?"

His amusement filled her with the old sense of tagging breathlessly, admiringly in his wake. She hated the note of apology which crept into her attempt to explain.

"I've been so awfully busy, Eric!"

"It doesn't matter at all, my Sue. Still, The Issue is quite the most important thing of its kind in America. I suppose I hoped you would be a little proud of my connection with it."

"I—I am proud, of course, Eric!"

"Sue, isn't it over?"

"Isn't what over, Eric?"

"The period of your duty to Trenton. I understand he's on his feet again in a business way. That's why you stayed, wasn't it? To help him because he'd made a mess of his affairs. You're free now." It was a statement rather than a question.

"Free?" She so far forgot her perturbation as to smile. "I have children? Two of them: Robert and little Susan. They're darlings, Eric."

"I have no doubt." He spoke coldly. "And I also have no doubt you'll insist on bringing them with you. Well," he continued, narrowing his eyes thoughtfully, "I shall try my best to be a decent sort of father to them."

'Don't Joke'

The implication of this astonishing speech reached her slowly. She withdrew her hand and leaned back in her chair, staring at him.

"If you mean what I think you do, Eric, you're talking nonsense. Bring them with me—to you? Don't joke about it, please."

"Joke? My darling, I never was farther from joking in my life, I assure you. Wait a moment—let's get this thing cleared up. I love you, Sue. I've never stopped loving you for one single minute. If you need proof of that, here I am, single and heart-whole, save for you. Do—you—love—me?"

She could only sit there in miserable silence, her visible agitation telling him more loudly than words could do what she felt.

"Thank God. Not that I doubted you, darling. Love like ours doesn't alter. We're back where we were when I left you in St. Joseph. But this time there's no Trenton with his pinsyune failure to stand between us. You're mine now, Sue—all mine!"

The voice which had had the power to shake her heart since first she heard it ceased. The lean, almost ascetic face was close to hers. She felt as she had done when, at Susan's birth, it had been necessary to give her ether. She had welcomed that obliteration of her senses gladly; she fought this with all her might.

"Eric, you must be out of your mind, I think. Leave Bob—leave the children? If it was impossible years ago, it's a hundred—it's a thousand times more impossible now." She made a movement as though to rise. "There absolutely no use prolonging this. I shouldn't have come here at all—I see that now."

"Sit down, Sue. I'm not going to abduct you bodily here and now. You're quite safe. And I have a good deal to say to you. I see I didn't take into account what this period of unadulterated domesticity would do to you. My standards are—slightly different, you know."

"They are, indeed, if they include leaving my children for you!"

He laughed. "It's nice to hear a touch of your old spirit, darling! But you've misunderstood me. I know you better than to think you'd leave the children. Bring them, bring them! I expect I could grow very fond of your children, Sue."

It was said so simply, without the faintest hint of patronage, that Sue was momentarily disarmed. Eric must be a lonely person, she thought. She wished suddenly that she'd found him married, with children of his own. She told him so.

"Yes, I've wished it, too, many times. But there is only—there will always be only one woman in the world for me. When can you come to me, Sue?"

She felt a rising tide of mixed amusement and annoyance.

"Eric, you talk like a child. Do you think — even if I were willing to leave him—that Bob would simply and cheerfully give up his children? This is a futile and foolish conversation, my dear. I do beg of you to end it."

"End it? When nothing has been decided?"

Girl Scout Hends of District Here for Conference

MISS FRANCES LEE

Girl Scout activities were discussed by Miss Frances Lee of New York City, member of the Girl Scout national field staff, at a luncheon meeting of the adult members of the Marion Girl Scout organization today at Mrs. Little's tea room.

Mrs. F. L. Thomas, commissioner of the Marion Girl Scout council presided at the luncheon, arrange for the council members and troop committee members. Immediately following the luncheon a meeting with the council program committee, headed by Miss Ruth Kleinmaier, chairman, was held. Tonight Miss Lee will meet with leaders from Marion, Upper Sandusky, Richwood and Bucyrus, in the Girl Scout office. Miss Barbara Fralleh, president of the Leaders' Study club, will preside.

Miss Lee brings a rich educational background to her position on the Girl Scout staff. She served as president for two terms on the board of directors of the Hendnidstress Association of the East and was a trustee of Radcliffe college for six years. She is one of the authors of "The Education of Girls."

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Jan. 13

ACCORDING to the lunar transits, this should be a rather lively and successful day, with much stirring in the direction of launching new programs of a fairly ambitious order. These should succeed by sharp initiative and aggressive measures, in which an element of novelty, innovation or experiment has a determining force, particularly in attracting financial backing or friendly support of influential personages.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which there is good promise of launching new propositions of importance, with the cooperation or financial support of those in prestige and power. Novel things, inaugurated with ingenuity, boldness, aggressiveness and practical initiative, should flourish.

A child born on this day may have much talent and initiative, with executive and organizing ability, as well as creative powers and ingenuity. It may attain legal or literary reputation of a high order.

NEW NATIONAL BIRD?

By United Press

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah. — Utah turkey growers who didn't fare so well with holiday sales have publicity plans for next year which they hope will alleviate the situation. They will attempt to replace the eagle as national bird.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS

PATTERN 4371

SPRING SONG IN YOUTHFUL FROCK

How glad you'll be to have reached the gracious years when you see yourself in this bewitching frock. It sounds an early note of Spring — Anne Adams' Pattern 4371. For spring makes you feel young—and this dress makes you look young! So many enchanting details: the scalloped yoke that goes all across the front . . . the softly bloused bodice . . . the graceful slimming side panels of the skirt . . . the just-right flare to the hemline. Have a back belt or an all-around belt that buckles in front. And let a crisp frill of ruffling edge the yoke and short sleeve style. Make a house-dress too, using scallop-top pockets and ric-rac trim.

Pattern 4371 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3⅞ yards 39 inch fabric and 1⅞ yards lace edging.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

"Now is the time to prepare for Spring," says Anne Adams about her New Spring Pattern Book which is now ready for you to order. It's alive with attractive styles including a youth corner for tots, 'teens and twenties, evening-belle frocks, Spring bridal finery, carnival cottons and gay prints. You will even find balanced styles for scale-tipping matrons and charm shop suggestions for forty-pluses. The book is fifteen cents but when ordered with a pattern, which is also fifteen cents, the two together are twenty-five cents.

Send your order to The Marion Star, Pattern Department, 243 West 17th St., New York, N. Y.

P.-T.A. COUNCIL SESSION HELD

Large Audience Hears Talks on Sex Education; Panel Discussion Is Feature.

A large audience made up of teachers, principals, parents, physicians, Parent-Teacher groups and others interested in youth welfare heard talks on "Problems of Sex Education" and later took part in a panel discussion, at a meeting sponsored by the Marion Council Parent-Teacher association last night at Central Christian church.

The discussion centered on problems of sex education and what the home, church and schools should do to promote it. Dr. Harry L. Bell, pastor of Central Christian church, was the leader and talks were given by Cecil Gabler, visiting teacher in the city schools, Mark McKitrick, psychologist and instructor at Central Junior High school, Dr. M. M. Weinbaum, city health commissioner, Robert Hicks, boys work secretary at the Y, and Thomas D. Bain, instructor in biology at Harding High school. Dr. Bell is family relations chairman of the Parent-Teacher council. It was emphasized in the talks by the leaders and in the discussions that sex education must begin in the home with the schools and church coordinating. It was the general opinion that Marion was handicapped by a lack of recreational facilities for young people, thereby hampering the promotion of recreational and social activities.

During a short business session Mrs. W. E. Orcutt, president of the council, named the following nominating committee: Mrs. Urlon Anderson, Mrs. Ross Todd and Mrs. E. G. Leffler. It was announced that Dr. Bell would call a meeting of the family relations chairman of the various P.-T. A. units in the near future, to outline programs or problems of "Family Relations."

Also it was announced that a meeting of all unit presidents and program chairmen will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at the library to plan an observance of Founder's day in February.

I. O. O. F. PROGRAM HONORS FOUNDER

Marks Birthday Anniversary of Thomas Wildey.

Rebekahs and the families and friends of Kosciusko Lodge No. 58 joined the members for a program in observance of the birthday anniversary of Thomas Wildey one of the founders of Odd Fellowship in the United States last night. The observance which is nationwide, marks the 121st observance of the anniversary. Mr. Wildey was born Jan. 13, 156 years ago, and was one one of five organizers of Washington Lodge No. 1, at Baltimore, Md.

A song, "America," opened the program and the invocation was spoken by T. E. Bolander, chaplain. Reading of the birthday proclamation was by Homer Schmelzer, and the address was given by C. G. Ritzler, past representative of the Grand Lodge of Ohio. His topic was "Living Monuments." Mrs. Lloyd Schiller and Mrs. A. E. Van Asbeck sang a duet, and Mrs. C. H. Rinehart gave a group of readings, interspersed with vocal and instrumental music by Mrs. Van Asbeck. A short talk by Dennis Gompf, chairman of the entertainment committee, closed the program, after which there was a social hour and refreshments.

During a short business session arrangements were completed for a district meeting Monday night with Kosciusko Lodge as host. The first degree will be exemplified by the Marion lodge.

DISABLED AIR LINER LANDS ON RIVER

By The Associated Press

MOLINE, Ill., Jan. 12—Ten-inch ice and some dexterous piloting saved five passengers and a crew of three from possible death early today when a United Air Lines plane made a forced landing on a narrow stretch of the Rock river.

The plane, with one of its two motors disabled, slid across the ice and smashed into a concrete retaining wall on the river bank. Four passengers and the two pilots sustained only minor injuries.

The 14-passenger sleeper, enroute from New York to San Francisco, developed motor trouble about midnight while near Iowa City, Ia.

MARION Y TEAM LOSES TO LIMA

Visitors Win 3 Out of 4 Volleyball Games.

Marion Y. M. C. A. volleyball players bowed to Lima in three of four games last night on the local court in the first of a series of matches with out-of-town clubs. Marion lost three straight by scores of 15-13, 15-8 and 15-13, before rallying to win the final, 15-13. Members of the Marion team were R. N. Heininger, Ted Biddle, Harry Moak, Robert Bush, Ralph Carhart, Dr. R. E. Eicher, Thayer Martin, Dr. H. R. Finney, Kenneth A. Robinson, Wilbur Evans, Roger Loveless and Herb Petrich.

Other matches are planned for the near future, including a return contest with Lima and games with Mansfield and Tiffin.

EAGLES AUXILIARY COMMITTEES NAMED

Mrs. Lenna McWherter, Mrs. Audrey Lloyd and Mrs. Ellen Rorick were appointed an auditing committee and Mrs. Wilma Chapman and Mrs. Zelma Woessner a visiting committee by Mrs. Pauline Irvin, president, at a meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to Buckeye Aerie No. 337, F. O. Eagles last night. Four applications were received and one was balloted on. Mrs. Bertha McKinnis received a mystery box award and the attendance award was presented to Mrs. Mary Watson. Announcement was made that the women's euchre teams will play teams from the lodge Jan. 18. Plans were made for a turkey dinner Jan. 25 at 6 o'clock when charter members of the auxiliary will be honored. Games followed the business session.

TOWNSEND GROUP INSTALLS OFFICERS

Newly-elected officers of Townsend Club No. 4, headed by Rev. O. D. Rider were installed at a meeting last night in the Forest Lawn school. Rev. F. G. Strickland of Williamsport was the installing officer and talked on "How the Townsend Philosopher Would Cure the War Agitation." Rev. Rider talked on the economic condition of the country and called social security a disappointment to thousands of older people. Music was furnished by R. Ruddock trumpet, Mrs. Effie Noo, piano, and Arthur Brown, guitar. Announcement was made of a meeting in honor of Dr. F. E. Townsend's birthday anniversary Sunday afternoon at Druids' hall. The meeting will be for all Townsend club members and will be sponsored by Club No. 2.

TEACHERS TOLD OF SIGHT-SAVING WORK

Series of Meetings Under Way To Benefit All Pupils.

Third in a series of meetings designed to acquaint the elementary grade teachers of the city schools with sight-saving methods was held yesterday at the sight-saving classroom in George Washington school. The third and fourth grade teachers attended. Previously meetings were held for the first and second grade teachers and next Wednesday at 3 p. m. there will be a session for the fifth and sixth grade teachers.

Supt. C. A. Hudson is in charge of the meetings which have drawn special comment from the state department of education. A letter from the department praised the system as going farther in the matter of sight conservation than in any other city in the state. Mr. Hudson pointed out that the teachers are given first-hand experience in the latest methods of sight conservation and should be able to carry over many of the basic principles into their regular class rooms. They should be better able now to detect faulty vision in their pupils, to arrange seating and lighting more scientifically and in general they should have a more practical conception of what can be done in sight-saving, he said.

At each meeting the pupils in the sight-saving class give demonstrations of the work being done. There is also discussion of various principles and memeographed literature is distributed.

Miss Ruth Schisler, sight-saving instructor, assists at the meetings in answering questions and explaining her work.

ELKS MAKE PLANS FOR GAME DINNER

Marion Lodge No. 32, B. P. O. Elks, last night completed arrangements for a game dinner next Thursday night. The dinner, to be prepared under the direction of Folyd Pickering, will be held at 5:30 instead of a later hour formerly announced. Preparations are being made to serve 240 members and visiting lodgemen. Entertainment will include motion pictures shown by T. E. Smith, officer in charge of the Marion navy recruiting station.

Plans were completed for attending the midyear conference at Norwalk Jan. 21. Officers and members and members of the Elks Women's club plan to attend. Announcement was made that the Elks bowling team will go to Mt. Vernon for games Jan. 26. Walter D. Moore was named chairman in charge of arrangements for observance of Americanization Week, Jan. 18 to 24.

Development of Fire Protection Reviewed in Kiwanis Club Talk

The history of fire insurance and fire protection was traced by W. D. Pearce, Fremont insurance agent, at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club at Hotel Marion yesterday.

Speaking on "The Handling of Hazards," Mr. Pearce declared that the "pocketbook motive" always has been primary factor in fire protection. Because of the threat to human lives, fire prevention and protection appeals to man's love of humanity but even this motive is secondary in the history of fire protection to the danger of financial loss.

The first insurance companies were formed in London shortly after the Great Fire of 1666 destroyed virtually the entire city with the largest fire loss ever known up to then. With the organization of fire insurance companies came fire departments organized privately by the various companies to secure them against losses.

How System Operated.

For a long period of time, the only fire departments known were owned and operated by the insurance companies and in no way were meant to serve the general public, the speaker pointed out. It was not uncommon in London in those days for a fire department of one company to answer a call to a fire only to find that the flaming building was not insured by the company. In such cases the departments would do nothing to combat the flames until they spread sufficiently to menace buildings insured by the company.

To aid the firemen, each company devised "fire arms" which were placed on the front of each building insured.

So strong was the competition and rivalry between the insurance companies that frequently members of one fire department would barricade streets so that a rival's fire department could not get through to the scene of a fire, Mr. Pearce related.

Finally United.

It was not until the 18th century that the companies realized the folly of their system and the great insurance companies of London finally combined and established a single fire department. However, this fire department did not offer public protection since it answered calls only to buildings insured by one of the group of companies.

Later came the movement for municipal fire departments and the insurance companies turned their attention toward getting cities and villages to establish and maintain departments. One of the greatest problems the companies had to face was the standardization of fire hose, nozzles and other equipment so that fire departments could help each other fight major fires, Mr. Pearce explained. This drive for standardization was completed only a few years ago.

With the establishment of public fire departments, insurance companies also were able to devote more time to determining the causes of fires, educating the public in fire prevention and establishing a scientific basis for computing insurance rates, Mr. Pearce said.

Mr. Pearce, a member of the Fremont Kiwanis club, was introduced by Fire Chief T. J. McFarland, who presided at the meeting.

SAY TIMBER WOLF SHOT IN LOGAN CO.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Jan. 12 — An animal believed to be a timber wolf, shot in Logan county was brought to Marysville today by Raldo Wade of West Liberty who shot it. Wade wanted to show the wolf to Capt. Anthony Pfarr, conservation division officer for this district. Wade said that there were numerous timber wolves in Logan county and that he had seen many of them in the last several days.

Wade said that he took a wolf he shot several weeks ago to Ohio State university where it was pronounced as a timber wolf. The wolf brought here weighed 34½ pounds. Pfarr said that he did not know of any wolves in this county but that he had heard of some coyotes being around here.

Giant "Cloverleaf," State Highway Dept's. Largest Project, Nears Finish

By The Associated Press

...S, O., Jan. 11 — ...e a gigantic flat-... across more than ... the state highway de... largest single project, a ...lover-leaf," is near... on a few miles south ...

...ate system of ramps, ...grade crossing elimi... designed to facilitate ...ly flow of traffic on ... state most heavily ...ghways—U. S. 21 be... ...land and Akron, and ... 17.

...templated as a companion ... the unit is a proposed six-... "freeway" with six 12-foot ... lanes on each side of a ... highway leading directly ... downtown Cleveland.

Great Traffic Outlet

...ighway department engineers ...imate that completion of the Cloverleaf and freeway will create a traffic flow greater than that handled by the famous Holland tunnel linking New York City and Jersey City, N. J., beneath the Hudson river.

One of the difficult engineering problems involved in construction of the cloverleaf was relocating part of the Cuyahoga river, which formerly ran through the center of the site.

Five spans, each more than 100 feet long, comprise the largest bridge structure, which provides an overpass above the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks, the Cuyahoga river, the old Ohio canal and the paralleling Canal road.

The entire project embraces parts of four villages—Cuyahoga Heights, Valley View, Independence, and Garfield heights.

Statistically, the project includes 83,160 square yards of brick and concrete pavement; 1,300,000 cubic yards of excavation and embankment, 13,000 tons of structural steel, 550 tons of reinforcing steel, 60,000 feet of piling and 11,000 cubic yards of concrete structure.

Cost Below Estimate

Portions of the contract were awarded to three construction firms at the letting July 22, 1938. Highway department engineers estimate that the actual construction cost will be $150,000 less than the original $1,700,000 estimate.

Theodore J. Kauer, young high way department engineer, is in charge of state supervision on the project. A native of Sandusky, Kauer was graduated from Ohio State university; served as assistant engineer of division 12 from 1932 to 1935, federal projects engineer for the state highway department 1935-38, and for two months in 1938 was division engineer of division 12.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Glands

The endocrine glands, which consist of the thyroid gland in the neck, the pituitary gland in the head, the adrenals, the pancreatic cells of internal secretion, and the reproductive glands, are, with the exception of the pancreatic glands, rather small in infancy and early childhood.

At the period of adolescence, when rapid growth begins, they also take on an accelerated development. The thyroid gland increases nearly three times in weight between the ages of 10 and 15. So probably does the pituitary gland. The reproductive glands, of course, show the most striking evidence of activity: in fact, this activity conditions the entire life and mental outlook of the adolescent. But the thymus gland, which is in the chest, at this time practically disappears.

Concerned with Growth

All these changes are concerned with growth. The pituitary, thyroid and reproductive glands especially have an influence over growth in height. The pituitary and reproductive glands are entirely concerned with the development of maturity.

It is axiomatic in physiology that when unusual and active growth occurs, it does not always stay under control. The activity of the endocrine glands in adolescence, therefore, may be exaggerated and in rare instances their activity may be reduced.

In the case of the thyroid gland, overgrowth or overactivity can easily be seen as an enlargement at the base of the neck. Certain communities are called "goiter communities," and in these regions this adolescent enlargement may be seen in a very large proportion of the population. Preventive measures in these communities have been adopted for some time.

All of these disturbances and changes create a psychological problem, of which every parent and school teacher is aware. I do not intend to go into the psychology of the adolescent here. It is too large a subject and I am not sure that I have any wisdom on the subject. To take care of an adolescent boy or girl who is in trouble is a life-sized problem.

Remember, however, you parents and teachers who deal with these children, that certain parts of their personality may entirely lag behind other phases of their development.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. B. H.: "Would you tell me the elements in coffee which are reputedly harmful, why they are so and what their effects may be on the person using it? Would coffee contribute to high blood pressure, heart or arterial troubles, or be the cause of it, or nervousness or tension, this in a person (woman) around 60 or so?"

Answer—The primary physiological effect of coffee is to increase the heart beat and increase the flow of blood through solid organs such as the kidneys, brain and heart muscles. It is this effect on the brain which causes increased urination following the use of coffee. Its effect on the heart muscle is good in people over middle age. If not used in excess, it does no harm. It does not raise blood pressure. It may cause nervousness when used excessively.

50 BIRTHS LISTED HERE IN DECEMBER

Stork Bests Grim Reaper in Final Month of 1939.

Engaging in a close contest during the final month of 1939, the stork outdistanced the grim reaper in Marion county and city. There were seven more births than deaths in December.

Births totaled 50 and deaths 43. There were 45 births in the city and five in the county, while of the deaths, 36 were in the city and seven in the country. Eleven births from previous months also were reported.

Daughters led sons in December stork deliveries. Of the 45 children born in the city, 23 were boys and 22 girls, but an edge of four girls and one boy in the county made the complete total read, 26 daughters and 24 sons.

Causes responsible for the deaths, as reported by Dr. M. M. Weinbaum and Dr. N. Sifritt, city and county health commissioners, follow: city, eleven due to heart trouble, five to kidney ailments, three cerebral hemorrhage, two each to shock and pneumonia, and one each to premature birth, tuberculosis, peritonitis, inanition, pernicious anemia, asphyxiation, accidental suffocation, hemorrhage, paralytic stroke, apoplexy and meningitis; county, two each to heart trouble, cancer and cerebral hemorrhage and one to pneumonia.

The Lend a Hand King's Daughters met Tuesday with Mrs. Robert Irey assisted by Mrs. Kenneth Sickel and Mrs. Mary Lyons. Guests were Mrs. Carl Brockleshy, Mrs. Violet Stafford, Mrs. Doris Knelber, Miss Rosely Lyon, Patsy and Peggie Irey. A kid party was held. Mrs. Alice Campbell won contest honors.

HEART IN WRONG PLACE

By International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Robert Vance, 19-year-old Negro of suburban Ardmore, went to Bryn Mawr for treatment of an ordinary nosebleed and stayed to become the center of attention of the medical staff. In a routine physical examination physicians found his heart is on the right side instead of the left and that all of great heart vessels are unsually elongated to compensate for the location. His unusual condition hasn't kept Vance from playing high school basketball.

WALDO CLUB MEETS

WALDO, Jan. 12 — Mrs. Max Howard, Mrs. Russell Sycks and Mrs. C. C. Conklin were guests when Mrs. Grover Snyder entertained the Octagon Bridge club Tuesday evening. High honors were won by Mrs. Leo Groll, low and galloping prize by Mrs. C. W. McKenzie. Guest honors were won by Mrs. Max Howard. A luncheon was served.

Harding and St. Mary Face Crucial Battles Tonight

Prexies To Invade Mt. Vernon While Irish Visit Tiffin Calvert.

By CHARLES HOSTETLER
Marion Star Sports Editor

CRUCIAL league contests on foreign courts comprise tonight's assignments for Marion's scholastic basketball quintets.

Harding, North Central Ohio conference crown-wearer, visits Mt. Vernon to collide with the unbeaten pace setters of current NCO derby.

St. Mary, defending co-champs of the League of Six Nations, tackles Tiffin Calvert on the latter's home boards. The Irish return here tomorrow night for a non-loop encounter with Morral of the county league.

Barring a major upset, which even the most ardent fans admit is a remote possibility, local combines will do well to break even in their on-the-road duels tonight.

Big Jake Givens, Harold "Peachy" Lore and Bill Crumrine comprise Coach Myron Prech's stellar trio of ball hawks, whom Harding will need to supress to pull an upset over the Mounties. Big Jake, who towers some six feet, two or three inches, is a demon pivotman who's been the major thorn in the side of Mt. Vernon foes.

Feared Last Year

He is the chap, who last year as a sophomore, racked up 18 points to give the Jackets a 41-29 home court victory against the Presidents. Harding's later ability to stop Givens (they held him to a mere eight tallies in a return game) brought home the bacon in the form of an NCO title with a 30-28 win on the local court.

St. Mary's fight to stay at the top of the L. of S. N. depends on how the local Irish fare tonight at Tiffin Calvert. In a pair of meetings last season the clubs broke even, while a double victory for the Saints would have given them a clear claim to an undisputed title.

In the first meeting St. Mary edged Calvert, 20-18, only to drop a later engagement to the Tiffin parochials, 22-19. As a result the Saints and Crestline finished in a deadlock for the league banner. The locals can hardly do worse than break even in their pair of games, but neither Coach Bernard Berens or members of his squad are willing to settle for less than a pair of wins. They should have little difficulty disposing of Morral on the huge Marion Steam Shovel court tomorrow night. The Saints already have triumphed over Pleasant Township and Claridon, county league leaders, and holds a second division berth with three wins in seven league starts.

Other Games On Tap

TWO LEAD AT OAKLAND

By The Associated Press

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 12 — Two players who would be described in horse racing circles as "superior mudders" set the pace today as a reduced field of 138 teed off in the second round of the $5,000 72-hole Oakland golf tournament. Fancy 67's, three under par, executed in rain, wind and standing water, put Craig Wood, blond professional from Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Wilford Wehrle, amateur from Racine, Wis., in front.

FOOTBALL

Men of the Decade in Sports

CLARK

By DILLON GRAHAM
Sports Editor, AP Feature Service

NEW YORK — In this era of gridiron specialists all-round football players are rare. Versatile perfectionists who can successfully match the best kickers, runners, and passers come seldom.

Earl (Dutch) Clark was one.

FIFTH IN A SERIES

Many call him the greatest player modern football has produced. And since football today is much more demanding and complex than in earlier years it might not be an exaggeration to rank Clark as the best all-round performer of all-time. Dutch is our selection for football's Man of the Decade.

It is fitting that professional football, the fastest growing of our newer sports, should contribute the game's top figure of the Thirties. For it is football's post-graduate department, a tougher, more complicated game than the collegiate brand. Moreover, few college athletes shine for more than a year or two. Professionals may be judged over a longer stretch.

College football had its aces, and great competitors they were. Jay Berwanger was a gallant figure on a hapless Chicago club, a one-man riot who gained All-American recognition with but slight assistance from the Maroons. Then there was Whizzer White, whose feats for a little known Rocky Mountain team brought him acclaim wherever he performed.

Baugh Sensational

Sammy Baugh had the cow-country dizzy with his aerial artistry for Texas Christian University and later set the professionals crazy with the same hocus-pocus.

Mel Hein, the Giants' great center, and Don Hutson, Green Bay's marvelous pass-snatcher, were others who belong in everyone's who's who.

But Clark is our man. He could do everything. An accurate punter, a great drop-kicker, a sure tackler and a skillful, hard blocker, he was also one of the National league's better passers and had few equals as a runner. As a quarterback he was virtually a coach on the field.

For six seasons he was chosen quarterback on the All-League team, in 1931-32-34-35-36-37. In

Clark Was Great But Lacked Grange's Color

1935 and 1936 he was the leading scorer and was second high in 1934. An 180-pound, 6-footer, Clark was not only fast but ran with a deceptive change of pace.

Grange Tops for Color

Clark undoubtdly was a better all-round player, but he didn't have the color possessed by Harold (Red) Grange, Mr. Football of the 20's.

No other college star ever enjoyed the fame that was Grange's at Illinois. Known as the "Galloping Ghost" because of his phantom-like elusiveness, Grange's jersey number 77 was familiar to every schoolboy. His 1924 field day against Michigan made him a national hero. Grange ran the kickoff back 90 yards for a touchdown and, before the Wolverines could recover, he made three more on runs of 45, 55, and 85 yards.

He was the country's No. 1 back as a senior and soon after his last college game he joined the professional Chicago Bears. Red was just the stimulus the young pro game needed. When Grange and the Bears played the Giants in New York in the winter of 1925 the contest drew 70,245 spectators —still the pro record—and the pro boom began.

No player has ever approached Grange's amazing record as a ball-carrier. During his three seasons at Illinois he scored 31 touchdowns, making All-America each year. In his nine professional seasons The Ghost tallied 320 points.

"The Mask" To Try Luck with Orth Monday

Three of last week's battle royalists return for top billing in next Monday's mat show at the Marion Steam Shovel arena—The Mask, Paul Orth of Cleveland and Martino Angelo of Buffalo, N. Y.

The Mask, successful in taming rough Danny Savich in the semi-windup following the gang fight, takes on another tough customer in pairing off opposite Orth. Angelo will get his competition, and there's every indication that he'll have plenty of it, from the Original Mephisto of London.

Of the lot, it looks like Orth, who prefers to be known among fans as "Tarzan of the Mat," drew the biggest assignment. The Mask showed an abundance of ring ability in a decisive win over Savich. He fought on an "eye for an eye" basis and bested the Utah hombre at his own rough game.

Can Gain Prestige

Should the hooded one manage to get by Orth in good style he'll assure himself top ranking among current light heavies. Despite his magnificent victory over Savich, he still must prove that he can consistently turn in such performances. The Clevelander is a good trial horse to place on The Mask's list, since Tarzan has been a consistent winner in local scraps.

Orth, who usually resorts to the more shady tactics of the game, dealt himself out of last week's win column. When he refused to unclamp a healthy bite of George Wagner's ear, Orth lost by disqualification. Up to that point he was even or ahead of his foe, but he gained no friends by dishing out his usual brand of illegal tactics.

Introduction of the "five-second" rule to the local mat has been the crux of considerable comment among mat-goers. The rule gives the referee power to allow a contestant five seconds in which to break an illegal hold and failure to do so means immediate disqualification and loss of the fall. The ruling was brought into play for the first time against Orth. Its advantages are making the referee's work easier, keeping the bout moving and acting as a counter-agent against rough ringwork.

Classy Stuff

Then Angelo-Mephisto tangle promises to be of high entertainment caliber. Angelo is one of the more spectacular grapplers, who packs plenty of color. His booking on any card augurs well for its success and particularly when he slated to trade grips with a front-ranking star like the Mephisto. The Londoner comes here for the first time in recent months.

Both top bouts will be over the 90-minute time limit with two falls deciding the winner. Another pair of light heavies will meet in a 20-minute preliminary, opening the show at 8:30.

MUSKIES PROVE TO BE HARD TO STOP

By The Associated Press

Once in high gear, Muskingum is one of the hardest basketball teams in the state to stop.

The Muskies, pace setters in the Ohio Conference, allowed Heidelberg to take a first-period lead in their tussle last night and then turned on the power to pile up a 40 to 24 half-time margin. The New Concord five tossed in substitutes in the late periods, but won easily, 64 to 54.

In other state games, Findlay walloped Bluffton, 35 to 20; Ohio Northern trampled Denison, 43 to 28; and Wilmington turned back Cedarville, 44 to 28.

REPORT RED BIRDS WILL BE SOLD SOON

Deal Almost Completed at Columbus, Paper Says.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12—Negotiations for the sale of the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association to a local syndicate are "practically completed," the Ohio State Journal said today.

The Columbus club now is owned by the St. Louis Cardinals of the National league.

Cardinal officials conferred in Cincinnati yesterday with T. Lee Huntington and Richrd T. Rector, Columbus sportsmen.

"If the Red Birds become home owned," the paper said it learned, "a working agreement will be formed with the Cardinals for at least two years."

Approval of the sale by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis was expected early next week, the Journal added.

Good Track Year Forecast Despite Lack of Olympics

By DANIEL J. FERRIS
Secretary - Treasurer, Amateur Athletic Union of the United States

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—Though at first it seemed that the likely cancellation of the 1940 Olympic games would be a severe blow to the year's track and field program, it now appears that American athletes as well as fans are in for a banner year of competition.

Undoubtedly there will be international competition, in the form of Pan-American games, even if Finland does not stage the Olympics.

Although fewer track and field records than usual were set in 1939, competition was unusually keen. These two trends should continue hand-in-hand in 1940.

The only way one can account for the lack of new records is that standards already are so high that only super-athletes can improve on them. Still races and competitions this year should be more sensational than ever, since the number of athletes of outstanding ability is increasing by leaps and bounds in all fields.

Central Cagers Top Vernon

Uptowners Upset Champions 20-18 in Junior High League Opener.

Central cagers scored a 20-18 upset victory over Vernon Heights dribblers in last night's inaugural of the city junior high school league schedule. It was the first defeat in three season for the East Siders, who have walked off with four consecutive city championships.

Central wiped out a 7-6 deficit at the quarter to take the helm by a 12-9 margin at half-time. Although outpointed 9-8 in the final half the Uptowners managed to cling to a two-point lead. Forward Mathias of Central was game's star performer, being credited with 11 points.

Vernon won the reserve preliminary, 20-14. Next week's league game will send the Vernon team to Thomas A. Edison school for a Thursday night contest. Summaries follow:

LEADERS READY FOR BATTLES AT ARMORY

Three Top Teams To Be in Action Sunday.

Three of the Sunday basketball league's top teams will be in action on the Armory court Sunday afternoon as clubs move into the seventh round of competition.

Ralph's Snappy Service quintet, pacing the circuit with four wins, collides with Midway Restaurant in the final duel at 5:15. The Restauranteers dropped a 44-33 decision to Ralph's in the Industrial league earlier this month and will be out to avenge the loss.

Wyandot Vaults of Upper Sandusky, holding down the runner-up spot with four wins and a loss, engage Kirkpatrick, third position occupants, in the second game at 2:45. Kirkpatrick has won three and lost one, dropping the lone game to Ralph's, 35-17.

A pair of second-division clubs meet in the 1:30 opener which brings together Earl Dairy and Company D, 166th Infantry. Each club has won one game, the Soldiers having played five while the Dairymen have engaged in one less.

Shaughnessy Gets Grid Job at Stanford; Alumni Split

Chicago's Coach Given 5-Year Contract.

By The Associated Press

PALO ALTO, Calif., Jan. 12—Alumni both praise and criticism for the selection of Clark Shaughnessy, University of Chicago's teamless football coach, to succeed Claude E. Thornhill at Stanford university.

Thornhill was dismissed recently after the poorest Stanford season in years.

Shaughnessy's appointment until 1945 was announced yesterday. No salary figure was disclosed. Shaughnessy received $7,500 annually at Chicago. He abolished football there after a disastrous season.

Shaughnessy coached at Tulane and Loyola of New Orleans before succeeding Amos Alonzo Stagg at Chicago in 1933 at the Big Ten university.

Approval of Shaughnessy's selection came from such alumni as Leland Nutter, prominent San Francisco and president of the university trustees, and Harlow Hobart, president of the Block "S" society, an organization of Stanford men who have won athletic letters.

On the other side, Eugene J. Kern, president of the San Francisco board of trade, said he was disappointed because Dud De Groot, San Jose State coach and former Stanfordite, was not selected.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 — Every head football coach at the University of Chicago now has followed Horace Greeley's advice of "go west young man."

Amos Alonzo Stagg was 70 when he departed seven years ago for the College of the Pacific, and Clark Shaughnessy, who now is following him, can count 47 birthdays. The latter accepted a five-year contract at Stanford university.

Shaughnessy's appointment was welcomed by Chicago alumni here.

Grade School Cage Schedule

The season's schedule for the grade school basketball league sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. was announced today by Dick Brandt, Y physical director.

Eleven teams will participate in league play, which will open next Tuesday afternoon on the Y courts and continue weekly through March 26. The teams will use both the upper and lower gymnasiums with games starting at 4 p. m.

Five contests are scheduled each week, the teams meeting on a round robin program that brings them against each member of the league. Last year the Pearl Street school won the league championship.

The schedule follows:

Jan. 16—Forest Lawn vs. George Washington, Glenwood vs. Silver, Pearl vs. Greenwood, Olney vs. Mark, Oakland vs. North Main.

Jan. 23—Oakland vs. Oak, North Main vs. Olney, Mary vs. Pearl, Silver vs. Greenwood, Forest Lawn vs. Glenwood.

Pleasant Cagers Invade Harpster Court Tomorrow

Interest in inter-county court battles will be spotlighted on Harpster Saturday night when Coach Ken Somerlot's combine entertains Pleasant Township, defending Marion county crown-wearers.

To date Pleasant is unbeaten in its own league while Harpster has a record of six wins and a loss in the Wyandot county circuit. The game brings together a pair of clubs which renewed court rivalry last year.

Pleasant squeezed out a 29-27 victory against Harpster with a field goal in the closing seconds and this year's duel brings together a pair of teams as evenly matched. Coach Somerlot attended high school at Pleasant and this year is hopeful that his proteges may turn the trick and even the score with his alma mater.

VET SAYS CHISOX HAVE GOOD CHANCE

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 12—Harold "Muddy" Ruel, veteran of 26 years in the majors, predicted today that the Chicago White Sox would be "right up there" next season. They just missed finishing third last season.

As for the Yankees, Ruel opined Father Time and other factors—possibly the White Sox—would stop them.

"Maybe they'll grow lackadaisical with their greatness, and some time when they call on that power for the stretch drive it won't be there," said Ruel.

Series of Semi-Pro Cage Games To Begin Monday

The Bradley Clothing Co. quintet will launch a series of Monday night games with fast semi-pro and pro teams, including some of the best in the country, next week when the Wyandot Vaults come here with an all-star lineup.

If the game with the Upper Sandusky team and games with future opponents prove to be drawing cards, the Monday night events will be made permanent features of the city's sports card, the sponsors reported.

After the game with Upper Sandusky this coming Monday night at the Y, Bradley's will meet the strong Dayton Pros on Jan. 22. Other teams scheduled for later dates include the New York Celtics and the New York Rennaissance teams.

For the opening program this Monday night there will be a preliminary at 8 o'clock in which the Jump's Hat Shop girls and Kirkpatrick girls will meet if present plans carry through.

The Bradley team includes a host of stars. On the lineup are Coach Bernard "Beanie" Bevens of St. Mary, lanky Ohio university product, who was an All-Ohio center for three years; Bob Kelly, former Dayton university star and St. Mary coach; Bill Williams, Harding coach; Ralph Simpson, Central coach; Carl Brickley, Edison coach; Al Tetlow, star at Bluffton college who is now coach at Meeker; Bill Evans, former Harding star who turned in good work for the Ohio School of Chiropody team; Bob Wooley and Don Creasap, former Harding stars.

The Upper Sandusky Vaults lineup includes: Dave Henderson, former All-Ohio Conference guard from Wooster; Don Paul, Northwestern; Emerson Niswander, Bluffton; John Harmon, Denison; Frank Tilton, Upper Sandusky star; Stan Smith, Bowling Green university; Mervin Stansbery, Tom Carey and Don Pagnard, all stars for Upper. All are Upper Sandusky residents.

Bowling

Neck and Neck Races in Industrial and City Leagues Continue at Hot Pace.

Battle for first place between the league's two top teams featured Industrial league bowling matches Thursday night. Coca Cola keglers copped two of three at the expense of Paulson's Grill and as a result move into the driver's seat with a one-game lead. Umbaugh's 226, P. Barkley's 586 and the CCC Hi-Way Freight's tallies of 947 and 2,657 took honors.

A similar fight for the helm of the City league saw Spot Restaurant pin-topplers take two of three against Cheney & Son Signs to put the pace-setting quintets in a tie for leadership of the City circuit. Putman of the Safety Cabs posted a double-century series, 237-202-262—701, for individual honors but team laurels went to Spot Restaurant for a 1,028 round and Wright's Transfer & Storage for a 2,888 grand total.

102 POINTS WIN FOR KIRKPATRICK

Some sort of a scoring record was compiled when Kirkpatrick Independents last night trounced the Lawrence Farm Market cagers to the tune of 102 to 28. Lloyd Hart garnered 30 points to pace the winners, with his teammate Eldon Beers accounting for 25 points. The game was played at Kirkpatrick.

HARMONY URGED IN RULERS OF BOXING

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—Vowing common motives, the boxing solons still are as far apart as ever on governing the fight game.

A dinner last night of the New York boxing writers for the presentation of the Edward J. Neil memorial trophy to Light Heavyweight Champion Billy Conn gave the issue some ventilation.

Abe Greene, chairman of the New Jersey athletic commission, declared:

"For too long there have been discordant opinions between the National Boxing association and the New York commission...The NBA speaks for the hinterlands and New York is the hub for the bigger boxing attractions. They need to get together. It doesn't have to be contractual, but there can be a meeting of minds and hearts.

GEORGIE FACE HURT

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 12—Georgie Face, National Boxing association bantamweight champion, today rested an injured right hand that forced him to cancel a Jan. 22 bout with Lou Transparenti of Detroit at Toronto, Ont. The Cleveland Negro sustained the hand injury in a New Year's day fight with Johnny Jadick of Minneapolis, and must refrain from hitting at least three weeks.

GETS CLEMSON JOB

By The Associated Press

CLEMSON, S. C., Jan. 12—Line Coach Frank Howard of Clemson's football team got a promotion yesterday. Starting February 1 he'll take over the duties of Jess Neely, head coach and athletic director who resigned to accept a job at Rice Institute. Howard's contract is for four years.

BIG TEN'S LEADERS DUE TO WIN AGAIN

Indiana, Purdue, Michigan All Favored in Tilts.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 12—Indiana, Purdue and Michigan—the Big Ten's three undefeated basketball title contenders—resume their victory drive tomorrow night, all favored to run their strings to three in a row.

Indiana, rated highest of the three, opposes Minnesota at Minneapolis. Purdue's well-balanced scoring club takes on Wisconsin, while Michigan is host to the Iowa gallants who lost Monday to Indiana, 45 to 30.

Chicago faces Northwestern in a battle expected to feature a scoring duel between the Wildcats' sophomore ace, Dick Klein, and the Maroons' Dick Lounsbury.

Illinois invades Ohio State, where the defending champions will be gunning for their first triumph after a slow getaway this season.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By EDDIE BRIETZ
A. P. Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—If Dr. John Bain Sutherland will tell us where he is going to coach this fall, we'll tell him where he can get a good halfback . . . Fair enough, isn't it? . . . New York papers are tipping Mike Jacobs not to throw Billy Conn in there with any more slow-footed heavies . . . Big Ten grid officials have promised each other not to relay any more gossip from camp to camp or discuss plays, et cet with newspaper men . . . Who says the Shaughnessy system doesn't work? You lose your ball games and get a five-year contract . . . Good luck to Clark Shaughnessy at Stanford and to good old Jess Neely at Rice.

Lee Savold, the mid-western heavy, made a hit here . . . He's a rugged, two-fisted puncher and you may see him mingling with Conn soon . . . Joe McCarthy is due this week-end for a confab over Yankee salaries . . . Cleveland and Buffalo are not working together any more because Detroit slipped in and got Clay Smith. Buffalo pitching ace . . . Jack Kearns is guaranteeing Bob Pastor ten grand to fight Red Burman in Detroit.

Ernie Lombardi's Sit Down Strike Due To End Soon

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Jan. 12—Ernie Lombardi's "sit down" strike over his new contract will be comparatively shorter lived than his famous "snooze" at home plate in the final 1939 World Series game, according to Cincinnati baseball club officials.

"I wrote Ernie a letter and I expect to hear from him during the next few days," Warren C. Giles, the Reds' general manager, said last night. "I believe he will sign his 1940 contract real soon."

The big catcher objected in Oakland, Calif., yesterday to a cut in his salary, which was reputedly near the $20,000 mark last season.

The Reds' general manager said he regarded Lombardi one of the best catchers in the league and "a contract has been awarded to him on that basis."

Ernie was voted the National league's most valuable player in 1938. He led the league in hitting. Last season his batting average was .287.

The Reds' front office, meantime, had contract No. 17 signed, that of right fielder Ival Goodman.

Purchase of Bill Baker, 28-year-old catcher, a former Yankee farmhand from Indianapolis, was announced by Giles. Baker batted .338 last year and in three years never hit below .300.

The Gumps — By Gus Edson

GUMP, I CAN'T CONTINUE TILTING WITH THE WINDMILLS OF DESTINY! YOU HIRED ME TO GET SHOPLIFTING EVIDENCE AGAINST A GIRL WHO HAS NEVER STOLEN ANYTHING EXCEPT MY HEART! YOU MIGHT AS WELL ACCUSE AN ANGEL OF SWIPING HER HARP! I QUIT!
VERY WELL, ROMEO! I MADE A VAST MISTAKE WHEN I THOUGHT I HIRED A WIDE-AWAKE DETECTIVE— ALL I GOT WAS A LOVE-SICK OLD GOAT! BAH! LOVE IS CERTAINLY BLIND!!
KEEP A CIVIL TONGUE IN YOUR HEAD, GUMP! YOU'RE CASTING ASPIRINS ON MY FUTURE WIFE! GOOD DAY!
JUST TWO WEEKS LEFT TO CLEAR BABY'S NAME, AND THAT FERRETT HAS TO WALK OUT ON ME—IF I TURN MY INFORMATION OVER TO THE POLICE, FERRETT WILL UNDOUBTEDLY ADVISE HIS SHOPLIFTING DREAM GIRL TO SUE ME FOR SLANDER!

WIFE SLAYER GETS LIFE IN PRISON
By The Associated Press

LANCASTER, O., Jan. 12—Fred C. Moore, power station fireman, must serve life imprisonment for the slaying of his wife, Bertha, last May 16 at nearby Pickerington.

A jury recommended mercy last night in convicting Moore, 57, of first degree murder.

Mrs. Moore's body was found in a closet shot twice and with a scarf twisted tightly about her neck. Moore was arrested two days later in Massillon. He denied knowledge of the death.

LEADING ISSUES DIP TWO POINTS

Market Resists Rally Efforts; Early Gains Later Wiped Out.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 — Efforts to pump a little rallying fuel into the stock market today met with opposition and leading issues dipped fractions to 2 points.

Small gains in steels and other groups shortly after the opening were soon wiped out and, with volume expanding, prices hit lows of the day before noon. Mild support subsequently appeared and extreme declines were reduced near the fourth hour.

Brokers attributed the morning selling burst partly to fears of new taxes, renewed softness of major commodities and the belief of some that business will suffer more of a setback this spring than generally expected. Wall Street, though, was far from unanimous on the economic outlook and suggestions were heard that markets already might have discounted the looked-for reaction in industry.

Among principal share losers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Anaconda, Westinghouse, Air Reduction, Pullman, Montgomery Ward and Western Union.

Loft and General Electric managed to post modest plus signs.

Bonds were shaky and European securities markets irregular.

Retreating in the curb were Aluminum of America Gulf Oil, Humble Oil, Jones & Laughlin and Colts Patent Fire Arms.

Those still friendly to the steels maintained the view that output, while probably dwindling between now and the first of March, would keep to about 8 per cent of capacity. Word from mill centers was that current production was being held at recent high levels, although backlogs were declining substantially.

Aircrafts were given occasional stimulants as reports were discussed in commission houses that the British and French were preparing to buy 12,000 American war planes over the next two years.

WHEAT PRICE DROPS 2 CENTS A BUSHEL
By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 — Wheat prices tumbled about 2 cents a bushel again today before enough buying appeared to right the market and cause a moderate rally. Prices reached the lowest level in a month.

Stop loss selling, closing out of lines because of need of additional margin and liquidation inspired by continued weakness of securities dominated trade much of the time.

Reports of large scale buying of southern hemisphere wheat by the united kingdom, probably referring to yesterday's news concerning contracting for almost half of the Australian surplus, had a depressing effect on North American markets.

Wheat closed 1½-1¾ cents lower than yesterday, May 98¾-⅞, July 96¼-½; corn ⅛-½ down, May 57¼-¾, July 57⅝-¾; oats ¼-½ down.

Export sales of U. S. corn to the united kingdom were estimated at 1,000,000 bushels, the largest business in recent weeks.

LOSING CANDIDATE'S REVOLT SUPPRESSED
By The Associated Press

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Jan. 12—Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra, apparently defeated as a presidential candidate, led an uprising of army sergeants and 30 soldiers at the military aviation field this morning, but the insurrection was quickly suppressed.

Velasco Ibarra was arrested, along with Major Rafael Astudillo and Flores Milo, a Guayaquil broker.

Velasco Ibarra was one of three candidates for the presidency in elections held yesterday and the day before.

On the basis of early returns Velasco Ibarr, a former president, was running second to Carlos Arroya Del Rio.

Court News

Decision Upheld

A common pleas court decision that the Home Building Savings & Loan Co., in its mortgage foreclosure suit against the Wesley M. E. church property on Olney avenue is entitled to priority over the mortgage of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal church has been upheld by the Third district court of appeals, according to notice received here by Clerk of Courts Carl F. Haberman.

The appeals court found no error and affirmed the common pleas court judgment at the costs of the defendant. The case was remanded for execution. Judges Phil M. Crow, William Klinger and Charles A. Guernsey of the appeals court concurred in the finding. The common pleas court decision had been handed down by Judge A. V. Baumann of Fremont, who presided during hearings here.

The loan company holds a mortgage of approximately $30,000 for which amount judgment is sought. In an answer and cross petition the Board of Home Missions set up a claim which it contended was prior to and better than the loan company's. Judge Baumann had dismissed the loan company's petition against the trustees as individual defendants, indicating in his finding that "the proof presented is sufficient to sustain claims of personal liability."

James A. White, Charles F. Eggleston and John H. Clark represented the defendants and Hayes Thomson acted as counsel for the loan company.

Appeal Filed

An appeal from a municipal court judgment granted the Toledo Scales Co. against Selena Gruesser has been filed in common pleas court. The Toledo firm was granted judgment for $120 against Mrs. Gruesser in connection with the alleged purchase of a scale. Mrs. Gruesser, contending that the scale was accepted for a 30-day trial period and rejected within that time, asks that the municipal court judgment be reversed and that the case be remanded for new trial. Mouser & Mouser filed the appeal for Mrs. Gruesser and Harter & Mickley represent the Toledo company.

Divorce Action

Hearing of the divorce action brought by Clyde H. Blair against Etta Mae Blair began this morning before Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young. Mr. Blair is represented by George T. Geran and Mrs. Blair's counsel is the firm of Guthery & Guthery.
